NAVAL CONFERENCE DEADLOCK BROKEN SOON

FRANCE'S HEAVY TONNAGE DEMANDS CAUSED TROUBLE

DIFFICULTIES APPEAR TO BE DISSOLVING AT SESSION OF PARLEY TODAY

MAC DONALD AND TARDIEU ARRIVE AT "NEW FORMULAS" SUNDAY

By WEBB MILLER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

London, March 17.—The naval conference deadlock on the issue of France's heavy tonnage demands appeared to have been broken today, and the delegates resumed their conversations with more confidence than at any time since the fall of the French cabinet, four weeks ago.

In a conference at Chequers, Premier J. Ramsay MacDonald and Andre Tardieu yesterday arrived at "new formulas" which will be the basis of further discussion, with the possibility that France's demands may be cut.

The Sunday meeting is described in some quarters as "the most important of the entire conference." It appears, at least, to have given the parley a new lease of life.

Acting with MacDonald in the conversation yesterday was A. V. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty. With Tardieu were Foreign Minister Aristide Briand, Rene Massigli, the noted French expert, and Jacques Louis Dimesnil, minister of marine.

In a written declaration to the press after the conference Premier Tardieu indicated that the two delegations discussed new terms designed to produce some measure of agreement sufficient to permit the conference to find its way out of the impasse that has existed ever since France first made her tonnage claims.

Before Tardieu's visit to Chequers yesterday, he received Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow in a long conference. The progress of the Japanese-American negotiations was discussed, it is believed.

BURLINGTON IN IMPROVEMENTS

TO SPEND $2,000,000 ON ST. PAUL TO LA CROSSE DIVISION OF ROAD

St. Paul, March 17.—(U.P.)—The Burlington railroad will launch its $2,000,000 improvement program on the St. Paul to LaCrosse division next week, H. K. Fischer, assistant divisional superintendent, said today.

The improvement and expansion projects will include completion of a double track program on the division and enlargements of terminal and repair shop facilities, Fischer said. Six miles of track between the St. Croix river and St. Paul will be re-laid to make room for a new government dam at Hastings, Minn.

Fischer said a crew of from 150 to 200 men will be employed on the division during the summer months. The Burlington also will purchase 12 large type passengers locomotives for use between Chicago and St. Paul, he said.

GREEN IN FAVOR OF MINE WORKERS AT INDIANAPOLIS

Indianapolis, Ind., March 17.—(U.P.)—William L. Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, came out unalterably today for the United Mine Workers of America meeting here, as opposed to the "rump" organization formed in Springfield, Ill.

"I hope I may show you and the world by my presence here that the American Federation of Labor recognizes only one miners' union as having jurisdiction," Green said. "Please interpret my presence here as evidence of this solemn fact."

YOUNG HAITIANS SEEK TO HONOR AMERICANS

Port au Prince, Haiti, May 17.—(U.P.)—Four avenues in this capital of Haiti will bear the names of United States senators if the proposals of the Haitian League of Patriotic Youths are accepted.

A movement was on foot to name the streets after a quartet of senators the youths consider most friendly to the republic. They are Senators William H. King of Utah, William E. Borah of Idaho, Henrik Shipstead of Minnesota, and John J. Blaine, Wisconsin.

TO EXTRADITE 3 BANK BANDITS

El Paso, Texas, March 17.—(U.P.)—Governor Reed of Kansas today wired his office to grant extradition papers to Colorado for the three bank bandits arrested at Jetmore, Kansas, Saturday.

"If Colorado wants bank bandits and will hang them, grant extradition papers," wired the governor, here en route to the Pacific coast.

Prohibition to Affect Congressional Elections

$1,000 EACH FOR CAPTURE OF BANK BANDITS IN STATE

Minneapolis, March 17.—(U.P.)—The Minnesota Bankers' association today announced it will pay a reward of $1,000 each for the capture of bank bandits—dead or alive.

George Susens, secretary of the association, said the reward will be added to the $500 offered by 44 of the 87 counties in the state. He said the association "hopes to make it unsafe for bank bandits and to hold robberies to the minimum."

The counties paid a total of $8,500 in 1929 for the capture of 17 bank robbers, Susens said.

AL CAPONE GETTING OUT OF JAIL TODAY

PHILADELPHIA BURGHERS ARE LITTLE EXCITED OVER RELEASE OF GANG CHIEF

VARIOUS STORIES CIRCULATED AS TO HOW CAPONE WILL LEAVE, AFTER HIS TERM

By H. ALLEN SMITH
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Philadelphia, Pa., March 17.—Little concerned with the doings of the most glamorous of all gang chieftains, two and a half million good Philadelphians got out of bed this morning, ate their grapefruit and read in the papers that Alphonse Capone, better known in the far reaches of the land as "Scarface Al," is getting out of jail today.

But the good burghers of the Quaker City are not in the least excited about the comings and goings of prisoners in the red stone-walled Eastern penitentiary, which lies in the very heart of town.

Located in the center of the city as if it were the public library, the Eastern penitentiary will yield up the person of Chicago's thick-lipped gangland czar some time before nightfall. Warden Smith said that Capone would not be released until the necessary papers were received from Governor Fisher, who is at Harrisburg, better than 100 miles away.

The governor just got back yesterday from a West Indies cruise. He reached Harrisburg late last night but announced that he wasn't going to fool with any papers, gang chief or no gang chief. He would sign Al Capone's release order, he said, when he got around to it.

By the time the baker's wagon drew up in front of the penitentiary this morning with a package of buns for the warden, there were more stories current on the streets and in the newspaper shops of Philadelphia, concerning the forthcoming departure of Chicago's beer baron, than one could keep tab on.

Signor Capone, one story had it, would wait inside the gate. A big Duesenberg racer, purchased specially for the occasion, would slide up at the curb. Out would come the gangster, into the racer, and away.

Still another story, purporting to be authentic in every detail, has Scarface Al speeding from the prison to Camden, N. J., where he will take a plane for Chicago.

Yet another had him in the drawing room of a fast Chicago train. Still others swear they have it straight that the racketeer will flivver his way across country to Chicago. They have him on everything but a tandem bicycle and a gray mare.

At nine o'clock the police cordon in front of the prison began to establish police lines. The crowd, which at this time numbered about 500, was moved across the street and warned to stay there. The newspaper men and photographers also were cautioned to remain across the street from the jail.

RISKS LIFE DAILY IN AIR; MEETS DEATH IN HOME

Dallas, Texas, March 17.—(U.P.)—For six months Donald B. McDonald, 30, risked his life almost daily as a student pilot here. Sunday he was strangled by his collar as he attempted to enter his home by the pantry service door.

He was choked to death slowly as his wife and two-year-old son slept only 15 feet away.

When a latched screen prevented his unlocking the front door, McDonald tried to go through the service door. He upset a refrigerator while trying to climb through.

The ice box pinned his head between the door, the box and the floor, and drew his collar taut. Unable to cry out, he strangled slowly.

The ice man found the body.

The body was sent to McDonald's home in Virginia, Minn., today.

2 Youthful Bandits Rob Payne Avenue State Bank of St. Paul Near Noon Hour of $3,000

FORCE 3 EMPLOYES TO LIE FACE DOWN ON THE BANK FLOOR

IS SECOND ROBBERY OF BANK IN 2 MONTHS, THIRD IN 7 YEARS

W. E. OLSON, CASHIER, CHASED BANDITS FOR 8 BLOCKS UNTIL CAR DISAPPEARED

St. Paul, March 17.—(U.P.)—Forcing three employes to lie face down on the floor in a cashier's cage, two youthful bandits robbed the Payne Avenue State Bank of approximately $3,000 in cash at noon today.

It was the second robbery of the bank in two months and the third in seven years.

The exact amount of loot was not immediately learned. Clerks estimated $3,000 may have been taken. Officials began an immediate check to learn the amount of money taken.

W. E. Olson, cashier, chased the bandits for eight blocks until their automobile disappeared in the traffic in the direction of the down town district. The other employes in the bank, L. D. Engberg, cashier, and Miss Ethel Johnson, bookkeeper, obtained the license number of the automobile.

The bandits were described as being about 25 years old, one wearing dark glasses and the other with his cap pulled down over his face. Both carried revolvers in their hands as they entered the bank during the noon hour when several employes were at lunch.

The holdup appeared to be part of a carefully arranged plan, police said. Exactly at 12:31 P. M. a false burglar alarm was sent from the First National Bank in a different part of the city and one minute later the bandits appeared in the Payne Avenue institution.

Every available gun squad member patrolman and detective was rushed to the First National to guard the thousands of dollars locked in its vaults. Officials of the larger bank said they believed the burglars had an accomplice concealed there.

Olson and Engberg said they believed about $1,500 was taken from each of their cages. The remainderings of the loot was scooped up from other departments.

One bandit robbed the bank on Feb. 4 last of $4,000, escaping so quietly that the alarm was not sent out for sveeral minutes. He was not apprehended.

On Jan. 20, 1923, two bandits escaped with $1,500 from the bank after a confederate, Neal Hurley, discharged city policeman, was shot and fatally wounded. Chester Ecklund, then cashier of the bank, was seriously wounded.

A sign in the window of the bank today while it was being robbed read: "The Minnesota Bankers' Association will pay $1,000 for the capture, dead or alive, of any bank bandit."

MOTHER BREAKS ICE TO SAVE BODIES OF HER TWO SONS

2 HAD BEEN PLAYING ON SOFT ICE AT A POOL NEAR SCANDIA, MINN.

DROWN IN 6 FEET OF WATER WHEN THEIR COASTER WAGON BROKE THROUGH

Stillwater, Minn., March 17.—(U.P.)—How a mother broke the ice and waded into a pond to recover the bodies of her two little sons was told today by neighbors of the Elwood Anderson family of near Scandia.

The two boys, Lloyd, 7, and Lester, 5, were playing on the soft ice of a pool Saturday when their coaster wagon broke through. The children drowned in less than six feet of water.

Frantic when she saw the hole in the ice while searching for the children, Mrs. Anderson beat her way into the pond, breaking the ice with her hands. She recovered Lester's body but was forced to go for help before the other body could be found.

Although the bodies had been in the water only a few minutes, Dr. O. A. Flur of Chisago City was unable to restore life. The rescuers applied respiration methods until the physician arrived.

The boys' father had returned home from Minneapolis, where he was under medical care for several weeks, only a few hours before the drowning.

PAY HONOR TO DEAD DICTATOR, PRIMO DE RIVERA

SPANIARDS OF EVERY WALK OF LIFE FLOCK TO PAY TRIBUTE TO THE MAN

BODY TO BE REMOVED FROM PARIS TO SPAIN, BURIAL NEAR SEVILLE

By RALPH E. HEINZEN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Paris, March 17—Spaniards of every walk of life, many of them sworn enemies of the six-year dictatorship of Miguel Primo De Rivera, today flocked to the little hotel on the left bank of the Seine to pay tribute to the man who died yesterday, six weeks after he laid down his power.

The body of the former dictator, who died in exile here lay on the death bed of his apartment. He wore the brown robes of the order of Carmelite monks, to which he subscribed as a layman. This is permitted by Spanish custom.

Two nuns constantly prayed by his bedside, while candles were massed around the bier.

The body will be removed at once to Spain, and burial will be in the family vault at Gerez, near Seville, in accordance with his request.

The exile of De Rivera, whose iron hand had upheld the Spanish throne for six years, was brief. Strangely enough, it bore out a prediction he made sadly when he arrived in Paris. "I shall never see my beloved Spain again," he said to a United Press correspondent. But he refused to amplify his statement.

He died of heart strain induced by an influenza attack which he suffered during the past weeks.

Continues debate on tariff bill.

Judiciary committee considers prohibition investigation.

House

Takes up unopposed bills on calendar.

URGE PASSAGE OF AN EQUITABLE FARM TARIFF BILL

St. Paul, March 17.—(U.P.)—The Minnesota congressional delegation in Washington will receive hundreds of letters and telegrams this week urging immediate passage of an equitable farm tariff bill, officials of Land O'Lakes Creameries said today.

More than 5,000 delegates at the annual convention of the creamery co-operative adopted a resolution pledging each member to write or wire his tariff views to a United States senator or congressman from Minnesota.

SHAMROCK GOES BACK TO THE TIME OF ST. PATRICK

SAINT USED IT TO EXPLAIN HOLY TRINITY TO AN IRISH CHIEFTAIN

GOD IN 3 PERSONS, 3 LEAVES FROM ONE STEM, SAID THE SAINT

Washington, March 17.—(U.P.) — The shamrock, which Irishmen wear on St. Patrick's Day actually goes back to the time of that saint, Michael McWhite, Irish Free State minister to the United States, explained.

After St. Patrick landed in Ireland, McWhite said, he was called before a local chieftain to explain the Holy Trinity. The chief had difficulty understanding God in three persons. St. Patrick picked a shamrock and explained it was the "same principle—three leaves from one stem.

Denver, Colo., March 17. — Donald Murray, 33, may not be Irish, but waiting for a green light got him into trouble. Murray drove his automobile onto the Larimer street aqueduct and stopped it, in conformity with the traffic laws, when he saw a red light blazing in front of him.

After several hours had passed Patrolman E. F. Cherrington enlightened Murray. The officer told him the light would not turn "green"—that it was an intersection danger signal.

Murray was arrested and charged with drunkneness.

Milwaukee, March 17.—St. Patrick's day found other old-timers here green with envy at the off-hand manner in which Alexander Bushy celebrated his 103rd birthday.

"Nothing to it," said Bushy. "My mother lived to be 102 and my father 101 — I've gone them one better already."

Bushy was hardened up for a holdout against time by many years at sea. As a sailor, he has seen most of the world's maritime ports. He was born at Bathurst, New Brunswick.

Madison, Wis., March 17.—St. Patrick's Day brought attention today to the fact that Prof. Fred T. Kelly is the only instructor in Hebrew at the University of Wisconsin.

Mount Horeb, Wis., March 17. — A Swiss orchestra is billed to play a St. Patrick's Day dance tonight in Mt. Horeb, populated almost entirely by citziens of Norwegian descent.

St. Louis, March 17.—Besides being St. Patrick's Day it was also Mrs. Thomas Collins 83rd birthday today—a fact almost equally important here.

Mrs. Collins has at least 684 relatives in the city.

"I've counted that many and then quit," the aged woman, known affectionately as "Grandma Collins," said. "It seems to me that most of the Irish in St. Louis are related to our family."

Mrs. Collins was born in County Galway, Ireland, on the seventeenth of March.

FOREIGN FLASHES

Rome, March 17.—(U.P.)—The Queen of Sweden, who has been seriously ill, was reported in a critical condition today. A bulletin announced that she had been unconscious several times in the last few days.

Nairobi, March 17.—(U.P.)—The Prince of Wales will carry out his original program in its entirety, meeting the Belgian authorities in the Congo on March 21, after which he will spend several days motoring there before leaving East Africa for Juba, on March 31, it was announced officially today. The announcement quieted rumors that the prince had cancelled his trip through the Nile valley.

TAKES LEADING PLACE IN STATE OF MASSACHUSETTS

FORMER SEN. BUTLER STANDS WITH HOOVER AGAINST MODIFICATION

WET AND DRY GROUPS ARE TO FORCE EVERY CANDIDATE TO GO ON RECORD

By RAYMOND CLAPPER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, March 17.—Prohibition will play a more important part in the coming congressional elections than in any since the eighteenth amendment was adopted, in the opinion of political leaders here.

Already it has taken the leading place in the key state of Massachusetts where former Senator William M. Butler, former chairman of the republican national committee, has just declared he stands with President Hoover against modification.

Preparations are being made by wet and dry groups to force every candidate for the house and senate on record as to prohibition and modification. Some who have been able to ride through one campaign after another avoiding prohibition as an issue are likely to be forced no record now.

The result is that the congressional elections this year are expected to be as much in the nature of a referendum on prohibition as it possible under the American political system.

In every election for the last ten years, drys have worked systematically to increase their strength in congress. They have seen it rise slowly until it is more than three-fourths dry nominally. Despite the agitation of wets, drys are at their highest peak in congress.

A loss this year would have a defeatist effect on many. It probably would be reflected in a general attempt of politicians in both parties to moisten up for the presidential campaign two years later.

This is why the congressional elections this year are all-important. They will point the way for some years to come.

Dry strategy, it is expected, will be based on two main objectives, first, to convince the country that prohibition, with all of its faults has been far better than the old-time saloon; second, to convince the country that another ten years will provide a sounder basis for judging its merits.

Wet strategy will be directed toward building a feeling throughout the country that prohibition has failed after a decade, that conditions are growing worse and that prohibition's faults are greater than its virtues.

Big names like those of Henry Ford, Thomas A. Edison, W. W. Atterbury and Pierre Dupont will head an expert propaganda battle on both sides.

BROOKLYN BOY KILLS FOUR BULLS

YESTERDAY, ANDALUSIAN BULL THROWS, FRANKLIN FOR 3 MONTHS' LOSS

Madrid, Spain, March 17. — (U.P.) — Sidney Franklin, the Brooklyn boy who wears one of the snappiest pigtails in the circle of Spanish matadors, killed four bulls a week ago.

Yesterday, a big Andalusian bull returned the compliment by throwing Franklin for a three months' loss. The victor of their particular contest was the second animal on the program, and Franklin's first "opponent" of the day. Dr. Jacinto Segovia, whose business is patching up wounded matadors, operated on Franklin at the Crespo hospital. While still recovering from the effects of the ether, Franklin joked about what he termed his "accident."

SENATOR SHIPSTEAD IS RECUPERATING

Minneapolis, March 17.—(U.P.)—Senator Henrik Shipstead is nearly recovered from his recent illness and will return to Washington soon, Dr. R. M. Pederson said today on his return from Panama.

The Minnesota farmer-labor senator has spent several months in the Canal Zone and the rest has benefited him considerably, Dr. Pederson, who accompanied him there, said.

STEAMER DESTROYED BY FIRE IN PORT

La Dorado, Colombia, March 17.—(U.P.)—The steamer Bucaramanga was destroyed by fire in the port today. The vessel carried 34 passengers who were asleep when the fire started. The extent of the loss of life was not known. The captain voluntarily perished with his ship.

For and Against 18th Amendment

Their defense of prohibition brought the organized dry forces of the nation again before the House Judiciary Committee with statements from several well-known people throughout the United States. While many of the nation's prominent women are in favor of enforcement of the 18th Amendment, many are also straining every effort for its repeal. Above is pictured Mrs. Sabin and Mrs. Norton, noted political and social leaders, who denounce the prohibition act as a failure, while other prominent women, such as Mrs. Henry Ford, Mrs. Edison, Mrs. Nicholson, Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, are firm in their assertions that dry law aids business and morals. The exile of De Rivera, whose iron hand had upheld the Spanish throne for six years, was brief. Strangely enough, it bore out a prediction he made sadly when he arrived in Paris. "I shall never see my beloved Spain again," he said to a United Press correspondent. But he refused to amplify his statement.

He died of heart strain induced by an influenza attack which he suffered during the past weeks.

URGE PASSAGE OF AN EQUITABLE FARM TARIFF BILL

St. Paul, March 17.—(U.P.)—The Minnesota congressional delegation in Washington will receive hundreds of letters and telegrams this week urging immediate passage of an equitable farm tariff bill, officials of Land O'Lakes Creameries said today.

More than 5,000 delegates at the annual convention of the creamery co-operative adopted a resolution pledging each member to write or wire his tariff views to a United States senator or congressman from Minnesota.

SHAMROCK GOES BACK TO THE TIME OF ST. PATRICK

SAINT USED IT TO EXPLAIN HOLY TRINITY TO AN IRISH CHIEFTAIN

GOD IN 3 PERSONS, 3 LEAVES FROM ONE STEM, SAID THE SAINT

Washington, March 17.—(U.P.) — The shamrock, which Irishmen wear on St. Patrick's Day actually goes back to the time of that saint, Michael McWhite, Irish Free State minister to the United States, explained.

After St. Patrick landed in Ireland, McWhite said, he was called before a local chieftain to explain the Holy Trinity. The chief had difficulty understanding God in three persons. St. Patrick picked a shamrock and explained it was the same principle—three leaves from one stem.

Denver, Colo., March 17. — Donald Murray, 33, may not be Irish, but waiting for a green light got him into trouble. Murray drove his automobile onto the Larimer street aqueduct and stopped it, in conformity with the traffic laws, when he saw a red light blazing in front of him.

After several hours had passed Patrolman E. F. Cherrington enlightened Murray. The officer told him the light would not turn "green"—that it was an intersection danger signal.

Murray was arrested and charged with drunkneness.

Milwaukee, March 17.—St. Patrick's day found other old-timers here green with envy at the off-hand manner in which Alexander Bushy celebrated his 103rd birthday.

"Nothing to it," said Bushy. "My mother lived to be 102 and my father 101 — I've gone them one better already."

Bushy was hardened up for a holdout against time by many years at sea. As a sailor, he has seen most of the world's maritime ports. He was born at Bathurst, New Brunswick.

Madison, Wis., March 17.—St. Patrick's Day brought attention today to the fact that Prof. Fred T. Kelly is the only instructor in Hebrew at the University of Wisconsin.

Mount Horeb, Wis., March 17. — A Swiss orchestra is billed to play a St. Patrick's Day dance tonight in Mt. Horeb, populated almost entirely by citziens of Norwegian descent.

St. Louis, March 17.—Besides being St. Patrick's Day it was also Mrs. Thomas Collins 83rd birthday today—a fact almost equally important here.

Mrs. Collins has at least 684 relatives in the city.

"I've counted that many and then quit," the aged woman, known affectionately as "Grandma Collins," said. "It seems to me that most of the Irish in St. Louis are related to our family."

Mrs. Collins was born in County Galway, Ireland, on the seventeenth of March.

FOREIGN FLASHES

Rome, March 17.—(U.P.)—The Queen of Sweden, who has been seriously ill, was reported in a critical condition today. A bulletin announced that she had been unconscious several times in the last few days.

Nairobi, March 17.—(U.P.)—The Prince of Wales will carry out his original program in its entirety, meeting the Belgian authorities in the Congo on March 21, after which he will spend several days motoring there before leaving East Africa for Juba, on March 31, it was announced officially today. The announcement quieted rumors that the prince had cancelled his trip through the Nile valley.

TAKES LEADING PLACE IN STATE OF MASSACHUSETTS

WET AND DRY GROUPS ARE TO FORCE EVERY CANDIDATE TO GO ON RECORD

By RAYMOND CLAPPER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, March 17.—Prohibition will play a more important part in the coming congressional elections than in any since the eighteenth amendment was adopted, in the opinion of political leaders here.

Already it has taken the leading place in the key state of Massachusetts where former Senator William M. Butler, former chairman of the republican national committee, has just declared he stands with President Hoover against modification.

Preparations are being made by wet and dry groups to force every candidate for the house and senate on record as to prohibition and modification. Some who have been able to ride through one campaign after another avoiding prohibition as an issue are likely to be forced no record now.

The result is that the congressional elections this year are expected to be as much in the nature of a referendum on prohibition as it possible under the American political system.

In every election for the last ten years, drys have worked systematically to increase their strength in congress. They have seen it rise slowly until it is more than three-fourths dry nominally. Despite the agitation of wets, drys are at their highest peak in congress.

A loss this year would have a defeatist effect on many. It probably would be reflected in a general attempt of politicians in both parties to moisten up for the presidential campaign two years later.

This is why the congressional elections this year are all-important. They will point the way for some years to come.

Dry strategy, it is expected, will be based on two main objectives, first, to convince the country that prohibition, with all of its faults has been far better than the old-time saloon; second, to convince the country that another ten years will provide a sounder basis for judging its merits.

Wet strategy will be directed toward building a feeling throughout the country that prohibition has failed after a decade, that conditions are growing worse and that prohibition's faults are greater than its virtues.

Big names like those of Henry Ford, Thomas A. Edison, W. W. Atterbury and Pierre Dupont will head an expert propaganda battle on both sides.

BROOKLYN BOY KILLS FOUR BULLS

YESTERDAY, ANDALUSIAN BULL THROWS, FRANKLIN FOR 3 MONTHS' LOSS

Madrid, Spain, March 17. — (U.P.) — Sidney Franklin, the Brooklyn boy who wears one of the snappiest pigtails in the circle of Spanish matadors, killed four bulls a week ago.

Yesterday, a big Andalusian bull returned the compliment by throwing Franklin for a three months' loss. The victor of their particular contest was the second animal on the program, and Franklin's first "opponent" of the day. Dr. Jacinto Segovia, whose business is patching up wounded matadors, operated on Franklin at the Crespo hospital. While still recovering from the effects of the ether, Franklin joked about what he termed his "accident."

SENATOR SHIPSTEAD IS RECUPERATING

Minneapolis, March 17.—(U.P.)—Senator Henrik Shipstead is nearly recovered from his recent illness and will return to Washington soon, Dr. R. M. Pederson said today on his return from Panama.

The Minnesota farmer-labor senator has spent several months in the Canal Zone and the rest has benefited him considerably, Dr. Pederson, who accompanied him there, said.

STEAMER DESTROYED BY FIRE IN PORT

La Dorado, Colombia, March 17.—(U.P.)—The steamer Bucaramanga was destroyed by fire in the port today. The vessel carried 34 passengers who were asleep when the fire started. The extent of the loss of life was not known. The captain voluntarily perished with his ship.

For and Against 18th Amendment

Their defense of prohibition brought the organized dry forces of the nation again before the House Judiciary Committee with statements from several well-known people throughout the United States. While many of the nation's prominent women are in favor of enforcement of the 18th Amendment, many are also straining every effort for its repeal. Above is pictured Mrs. Sabin and Mrs. Norton, noted political and social leaders, who denounce the prohibition act as a failure, while other prominent women, such as Mrs. Henry Ford, Mrs. Edison, Mrs. Nicholson, Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, are firm in their assertions that dry law aids business and morals.

AUXILIARY BAND CONCERT MARCH 31

Third Annual Program to be Given by Lady Musicians in High School

A fortnight hence, Monday evening, March 31, the American Legion Auxiliary band, under the direction of Miss Effie Drexler, will give its third annual concert at the high school auditorium.

The program will be in three parts. The first part will be a typical band program, opening with a "warming up" march, an overture, a piccolo solo by Miss Georgia Brown and a whistling solo featuring Miss Edna Wright.

The second part of the program will feature a medley of Swedish national songs. The words for the opening number, which will be sung and played by the band girls, were written by Roland Jenkins. The band will be attired in costumes typical of Dalarna, a province of Ratvik, Sweden.

This second part of the program relates to the Legion conventions for whenever the Brainerd girls appear on parade "Here Come the Swedes from Minnesota" is heard all along the line of march. The band anticipates wearing these costumes at the national convention to be held at Boston this year.

In addition to the Swedish songs, the band will play state songs which are most popular at conventions.

During the intermission between the second and third parts, the Swedish Glee club will sing three of their national songs. Charles Jernberg will give a humorous Swedish song "The Teamster." This is a number which never fails to please whenever it is given. The Glee club will appear in the uniforms which they wear at the district conventions of the American Union of Swedish singers.

The third part of the program will consist of eight numbers, in the nature of a musical revue.

AUXILIARY BAND CONCERT MARCH 31

Third Annual Program to be Given by Lady Musicians in High School

A fortnight hence, Monday evening, March 31, the American Legion Auxiliary band, under the direction of Miss Effie Drexler, will give its third annual concert at the high school auditorium.

The program will be in three parts. The first part will be a typical band program, opening with a "warming up" march, an overture, a piccolo solo by Miss Georgia Brown and a whistling solo featuring Miss Edna Wright.

The second part of the program will feature a medley of Swedish national songs. The words for the opening number, which will be sung and played by the band girls, were written by Roland Jenkins. The band will be attired in costumes typical of Dalarna, a province of Ratvik, Sweden.

This second part of the program relates to the Legion conventions for whenever the Brainerd girls appear on parade "Here Come the Swedes from Minnesota" is heard all along the line of march. The band anticipates wearing these costumes at the national convention to be held at Boston this year.

In addition to the Swedish songs, the band will play state songs which are most popular at conventions.

During the intermission between the second and third parts, the Swedish Glee club will sing three of their national songs. Charles Jernberg will give a humorous Swedish song "The Teamster." This is a number which never fails to please whenever it is given. The Glee club will appear in the uniforms which they wear at the district conventions of the American Union of Swedish singers.

The third part of the program will consist of eight numbers, in the nature of a musical revue.

LAND O' LAKES HAS BEST YEAR IN 1929

Finest Record in History Despite Abnormally Bad Year; Local Members Attend

George Morcomb, delegate of the Farmers Cooperative Creamery Association, and Geo. Henningson, a patron of the Creamery have returned from the ninth annual convention of the Land O'Lakes Creameries Inc. held at Minneapolis March 13, 14, which was attended by more than 6,000 people.

They reported that the meeting was a very enthusiastic one and delegates and members were especially pleased with the annual report of the organization which, although this has been an abnormally bad year in the dairy industry, showed that the organization had done more business than in any other year in its history. The total business for 1929 was $52,631,641.33 of compared with $48,978,533.61 for last year. The association handled in 1929, 93,224,978 pounds of butter, while last year it handled 85,874,451 pounds. The increase was even greater in dried milk 23,176,013 pounds having been handled in 1929 in comparison with 5,471,567 pounds in 1928. Another department in which there was a great increase was turkeys, 3,395,828 pounds of turkeys being sold in 1929 in comparison with 1,219,294 pounds in 1928. The Machinery and Supply Department did a business of $2,139,996.39 in comparison with $1,921,050.87 in 1928.

Emil G. Johnson, treasurer, in giving the financial report stated that while department operations as a whole showed a loss for 1929 owing to the abnormal drop in the butter market, of some one hundred and ninety thousand dollars the increase in the reserve for the year leaves only a decrease in net wirth of $98,913.04.

"Considering the fact, said Mr. Johnson, that we started out the year of 1929 with a high market and closed on a much lower basis which means that the operations have been conducted on a generally declining market and that all inventories regardless of whether or not they may later be sold at higher quotations, have been adjusted on the basis of market values, the officers and directors of the company feel that the organization has made a very good showing for the year 1929, and that it has demonstrated its ability to handle the large volume of business in a way very satisfactory to the membership and has met the situation caused by the adverse market condition without in any way effecting its ability to carry on with the increased business of 1930 in an efficient and orderly manner."

"From all indications," said Mr. Brandt in his annual address, "we started out 1930 at the low point in the market, and this year will be the banner year of the organization. We can see business prosperity just ahead and without doubt we will be back to normal conditions within a very short time. There may be some slight reactions but the general trend will be upward. The declining prices of dairy products has been very pronounced but we are proud of the way in which the members of our association have accepted this declined price. There has been no loose talk or wild agitation against other business interests; they have faced the situation with a grim determination to further protect their own business organization in such a manner that future situations of the kind we have just passed through will not occur.

"I am sure that Land O'Lakes will enjoy the greatest and most prosperous year in 1930 in its history. Let us all take hold of the task at hand with a spirit and determination to win."

A. J. McGuire detailed the work of the various departments in 1929 showing the gains which had been made over 1928. H. F. Meyer, director of sales told of the extension in the butter marketing program and predicted that the bottom had already been reached in the butter market and that it would soon strengthen.

H. N. Knipfel, commissioner of Department of Markets, Madison, Wis., said "our whole structure of food distribution is undergoing a change, and cooperative marketing is going to play a great part in this transformation. Your Land O'Lakes Creameries has been doing a great work and gives an idea of what is going to be accomplished by cooperative organizations in the future."

Murray K. Guthrie of Batten, Barton, Durstine, and Osborne Advertising Agents representing Land O'Lakes Creameries spoke of the benefits to be derived from more extensive advertising of Land O'Lakes butter.

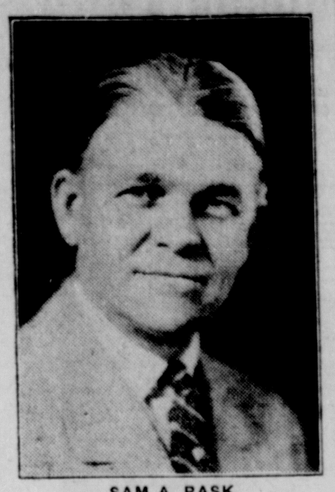

Other resolutions adopted commended the Federal Farm Board and demanded an adequate tariff for farm products, declaring that if this is not given regulation of production and promotion of orderly marketing would be of little value; called for the giving to the Phillipines of their independence to enable the placing of a tariff on vegetable oils; called for an extension of tuberculine testing highly commended the officers and management of the excellent way in which they have managed the affairs of the organization in the abnormal year of 1929; commended the daily, weekly and farm press and the civic organizations for the aggressive and intensive dork done in promoting the consumption of butter.

STUDENTS SERVE NOTICE ON ELDERS

MONTEVIDEO SCHOOL BOARD GIVEN ULTIMATUM BY FORMER STRIKERS

Montevideo, Minn., March 17.—(U.P.)—High school students answered "present" today after having deserted class rooms last week when four of their classmates were suspended.

The students however served notice on the school board that unless the four students are reinstated at tonight's meeting of the board they may walk out of their class rooms again. Board members have not announced what action they will take on a student petition demanding the reinstatement of the four students accused of drinking at a basketball game last Thursday.

For a while students were incensed over the resignation of Miss Lillian Pederson, their favorite English teacher who was reported to have been dismissed. Miss Pederson told the striking students however that her resignation was of her one volition.

The students presented the following petition to the school board after "a mass meeting yesterday."

"We have come to the conclusion that the strike in which we participated March 14 was unnecessary and that we put the cart before the horse. Our action was based on conclusions drawn from rumors that were circulating. We will return to school Monday expecting that the four boys will be reinstated following the meeting of the school board Monday night.

"We wish to have a student council organized to take care of such matters in the future."

Emil G. Johnson, treasurer, in giving the financial report stated that while department operations as a whole showed a loss for 1929 owing to the abnormal drop in the butter market, of some one hundred and ninety thousand dollars the increase in the reserve for the year leaves only a decrease in net wirth of $98,913.04.

"Considering the fact, said Mr. Johnson, that we started out the year of 1929 with a high market and closed on a much lower basis which means that the operations have been conducted on a generally declining market and that all inventories regardless of whether or not they may later be sold at higher quotations, have been adjusted on the basis of market values, the officers and directors of the company feel that the organization has made a very good showing for the year 1929, and that it has demonstrated its ability to handle the large volume of business in a way very satisfactory to the membership and has met the situation caused by the adverse market condition without in any way effecting its ability to carry on with the increased business of 1930 in an efficient and orderly manner."

"From all indications," said Mr. Brandt in his annual address, "we started out 1930 at the low point in the market, and this year will be the banner year of the organization. We can see business prosperity just ahead and without doubt we will be back to normal conditions within a very short time. There may be some slight reactions but the general trend will be upward. The declining prices of dairy products has been very pronounced but we are proud of the way in which the members of our association have accepted this declined price. There has been no loose talk or wild agitation against other business interests; they have faced the situation with a grim determination to further protect their own business organization in such a manner that future situations of the kind we have just passed through will not occur.

"I am sure that Land O'Lakes will enjoy the greatest and most prosperous year in 1930 in its history. Let us all take hold of the task at hand with a spirit and determination to win."

A. J. McGuire detailed the work of the various departments in 1929 showing the gains which had been made over 1928. H. F. Meyer, director of sales told of the extension in the butter marketing program and predicted that the bottom had already been reached in the butter market and that it would soon strengthen.

H. N. Knipfel, commissioner of Department of Markets, Madison, Wis., said "our whole structure of food distribution is undergoing a change, and cooperative marketing is going to play a great part in this transformation. Your Land O'Lakes Creameries has been doing a great work and gives an idea of what is going to be accomplished by cooperative organizations in the future."

Murray K. Guthrie of Batten, Barton, Durstine, and Osborne Advertising Agents representing Land O'Lakes Creameries spoke of the benefits to be derived from more extensive advertising of Land O'Lakes butter.

Other resolutions adopted commended the Federal Farm Board and demanded an adequate tariff for farm products, declaring that if this is not given regulation of production and promotion of orderly marketing would be of little value; called for the giving to the Phillipines of their independence to enable the placing of a tariff on vegetable oils; called for an extension of tuberculine testing highly commended the officers and management of the excellent way in which they have managed the affairs of the organization in the abnormal year of 1929; commended the daily, weekly and farm press and the civic organizations for the aggressive and intensive dork done in promoting the consumption of butter.

BELIEVE NOTE FOUND IN BOTTLE IS HOAX

Milwaukee, March 17.—(U.P.)—Police here today declared they felt certain that a note found in a floating bottle and stating that two men were marooned on a lonely is land in Lake Michigan was a hoax.

The bottle was found floating in the lake by Russell Zieman and the note asked that the finder send Butler Johnson and Herbert Savage on a rescue mission after the "marooned" victims. Police said they felt sure it was an attempt by someone to play a joke on Johnson and Savage.

STUDENTS SERVE NOTICE ON ELDERS

Montevideo, Minn., March 17.—(U.P.)—High school students answered "present" today after having deserted class rooms last week when four of their classmates were suspended.

The students however served notice on the school board that unless the four students are reinstated at tonight's meeting of the board they may walk out of their class rooms again. Board members have not announced what action they will take on a student petition demanding the reinstatement of the four students accused of drinking at a basketball game last Thursday.

For a while students were incensed over the resignation of Miss Lillian Pederson, their favorite English teacher who was reported to have been dismissed. Miss Pederson told the striking students however that her resignation was of her one volition.

"We have come to the conclusion that the strike in which we participated March 14 was unnecessary and that we put the cart before the horse. Our action was based on conclusions drawn from rumors that were circulating. We will return to school Monday expecting that the four boys will be reinstated following the meeting of the school board Monday night.

"We wish to have a student council organized to take care of such matters in the future."

Nation's Best Flower Show

THE million dollar national flower show, with more than a million plants exhibited in three hundred and fifty classifications, in the Minneapolis auditorium, March 29 to April 6, promises to be the largest and most beautiful show ever seen in America.

As related by Lieut. Wirth when he addressed the Rotary club here, it will not be held here again for some 60 years, thus making it an event of a lifetime in this area. This is the eleventh annual show. Other cities which have had the honor of this great convention are Chicago, New York, Boston, Detroit, Philadelphia, Indianapolis, Buffalo and Cleveland.

The flower show will occupy 88,000 square feet of floor space. It will require the attention of 50 gardeners, in addition to all other attendants employed, to groom the flowers while the show is on.

Tickets in the advance sale before March 29 are less than half the regular admission. Theodore Wirth, superintendent of Minneapolis parks, is chairman of the Minneapolis executive committee.

Oddities of the plant world as well as rare and lovely exotic blooms will be shown. Forty-six varieties of orchids and perhaps more will be shown. One exhibit of orchids, valued at $20,000, will have its own special guard of police.

The acacias will be an interesting exhibit. At Kansas City, at Detroit and at Buffalo where the last National Flower Show was held, the acacias drew large crowds of admirers. It is believed they will have a great appeal at the Minnesota presentation of the National Flower Show since they have never been seen in bloom at any flower show in this section of the country. Robert Roland, of Nahant, Mass., will be the outstanding exhibitor of acacias, so far as is known at present.

The accacia is of the genus of shrubs and has a small flower arranged in rounded or elongated clusters. There are 450 species widely scattered over the warmer regions of the globe. They abound in Australia but are not seen in northern states. They are reputed fragrant and their blossoms are of delicate beauty.

An appropriation of $1,000 has been made as an award for two entries of acacias in the Flower Show not less than eight feet in height and numbering six plants in each exhibit.

A tidy premium will go to the prize winners who divide $3,000 when the flower show judges determine the best exhibits in the special open class, in which gardens covering 800 square feet each will demonstrate artistic arrangement of roses, bulbs, shrubbery and lawns. Gold, silver and bronze medals are to be awarded as well as the cash premiums totalling $3,000.

Prizes amounting to more than $25,000 will be paid to exhibitors, and there will be 250 classes, including old time garden favorites as well as the rare and exotic blooms.

Members of the Crow Wing County Garden and Flower society and many other flower lovers will attend in large numbers. It is an exhibition which carries instruction as well as pleasure and which is an event of a lifetime, leaving a favorable impress on a wide area for many years to come. To stimulate a love for the beautiful is a noble attribute, especially when that love brings into our lives things which in turn work for the betterment of our own community.

A Builder Gone

IN the death of F. H. Gruenhagen, or Fred as he was known to his associates, the city of Brainerd and county of Crow Wing lost one who did much for the upbuilding of town and country. During his term as President of the Chamber of Cemmerce Mr. Gruenhagen made it one of the major activities to better the condition of the dairy herds of the county through the introduction of pure-bred sires. The plan as eventually worked out gained the commendation of the Northern Pacific railway, agricultural and dairy authorities, and others. The benefits of this herd improvement plan are perpetual and carry on in an ever increasing arc of usefulness.

Always working for the community, it was Mr. Gruenhagen's special gift to be able to assist in the financing of many community projects.

He served as alderman of the fifth ward and did much for his constituents.

Always uncomplaining, even his closest friends were not aware that he suffered at times and the extent of his last illness was not apparent until he was taken to a hospital. He had been so sturdy and robust that minor ailments had never bothered him.

His name is linked with one of the greatest stock farms in the Northwest, and the institution located near the south side city limits is a show place of renown for fine Holsteins. In business life throughout the city he was a builder too, aiding in the establishment of a home laundry.

Yes, the monument to his industry and foresight, to his love for his farmer neighbors of Crow Wing county, may be found in the lowing herds of added productivity which have increased the competence of the dairymen and have improved dairying as well as agriculture in general in our district.

On Chasing One's Hat

GILBERT K. CHESTERTON in the Golden Book asserts there is a current impression that it is unpleasant to have to run after one's hat. Why should it be unpleasant to the well-ordered and pious mind? Not merely because it is running, and running exhausts one. The same people run much faster in games and sports. The same people run much more eagerly after an uninteresting little leather ball than they will after a nice silk hat.

There is an idea that it is humiliating to run after one's hat; and when people say it is humiliating they mean that it is comic. It certainly is comic; but man is a very comic creature, and most of the things he does are comic—eating, for instance. And the most comic things of all are exactly the things that are most worth doing—such as making love.

TABULATION DEPARTMENT AT CENSUS BUREAU — DR J. A. HILL, ASST DIRECTOR — MARGARET CARROLL EXAMINES RECORDS of 1790

It is a far cry back to 1790, when the Federal census of the United States was taken. The Census Bureau has, like all other things, improved its system since the first census taking. Above illustration shows the extreme care which Uncle Sam takes in gathering and compiling data on his gigantic family. An interesting comparison in the illustration is that of the census taken in Boston in 1790 with its antiquated forms compared with the more practical form of 1930. Note the important names listed in the Boston census report, names of persons who played a part in the history of our country which have earned for them a place on history's pages. The compilation of the 1930 census will require the services of more than 100,000 people.

TAKES UP NEW LIFE

At 65, the possessor of only $60, but boundless courage, Dr. Frederick A. Cook, arctic explorer whose claims to the north pole discovery were exploded, is now in Chicago, where he plans to start life anew. This photograph was made upon his release from Leavenworth penitentiary, where he served for using the mails to defraud.

Big kernels in small shells

In addition to the advertisements of the big department stores, of the grocery and hardware stores, of the millinery, clothing and shoe stores, there is another kind of advertising that is being read more and more by readers of this newspaper. That kind of advertising is the Classified Columns.

A man or woman wants a job. They read the "Help Wanted" columns and probably insert an advertisement of their own under "Positions Wanted." Employer and job seeker soon get together to the benefit of both. A man may want an automobile—possibly he cannot afford a new car, so he looks in the "For Sale" columns and finds just the car at the price he can afford to pay. Some one has lost a pocketbook, valuable papers or even a pet dog. The "Lost and Found" columns soon bring loser and finder together.

The Classified Columns are so arranged that any one can readily find what he seeks quickly—business news, machinery and tools, household goods, horses, dogs, cats, canaries, etc. They enable you to locate what you are looking for in short order. So in reading advertising do not overlook the classified columns—the individual advertisements do not take up much room, but like the meaty nut they may contain a big kernel in a small shell—just for you.

Read the advertisements for your own good . . . classified columns as well as display advertisements

The acacias will be an interesting exhibit. At Kansas City, at Detroit and at Buffalo where the last National Flower Show was held, the acacias drew large crowds of admirers. It is believed they will have a great appeal at the Minnesota presentation of the National Flower Show since they have never been seen in bloom at any flower show in this section of the country. Robert Roland, of Nahant, Mass., will be the outstanding exhibitor of acacias, so far as is known at present.

The accacia is of the genus of shrubs and has a small flower arranged in rounded or elongated clusters. There are 450 species widely scattered over the warmer regions of the globe. They abound in Australia but are not seen in northern states. They are reputed fragrant and their blossoms are of delicate beauty.

An appropriation of $1,000 has been made as an award for two entries of acacias in the Flower Show not less than eight feet in height and numbering six plants in each exhibit.

A tidy premium will go to the prize winners who divide $3,000 when the flower show judges determine the best exhibits in the special open class, in which gardens covering 800 square feet each will demonstrate artistic arrangement of roses, bulbs, shrubbery and lawns. Gold, silver and bronze medals are to be awarded as well as the cash premiums totalling $3,000.

Prizes amounting to more than $25,000 will be paid to exhibitors, and there will be 250 classes, including old time garden favorites as well as the rare and exotic blooms.

Members of the Crow Wing County Garden and Flower society and many other flower lovers will attend in large numbers. It is an exhibition which carries instruction as well as pleasure and which is an event of a lifetime, leaving a favorable impress on a wide area for many years to come. To stimulate a love for the beautiful is a noble attribute, especially when that love brings into our lives things which in turn work for the betterment of our own community.

A Builder Gone

IN the death of F. H. Gruenhagen, or Fred as he was known to his associates, the city of Brainerd and county of Crow Wing lost one who did much for the upbuilding of town and country. During his term as President of the Chamber of Cemmerce Mr. Gruenhagen made it one of the major activities to better the condition of the dairy herds of the county through the introduction of pure-bred sires. The plan as eventually worked out gained the commendation of the Northern Pacific railway, agricultural and dairy authorities, and others. The benefits of this herd improvement plan are perpetual and carry on in an ever increasing arc of usefulness.

Always working for the community, it was Mr. Gruenhagen's special gift to be able to assist in the financing of many community projects.

He served as alderman of the fifth ward and did much for his constituents.

Always uncomplaining, even his closest friends were not aware that he suffered at times and the extent of his last illness was not apparent until he was taken to a hospital. He had been so sturdy and robust that minor ailments had never bothered him.

His name is linked with one of the greatest stock farms in the Northwest, and the institution located near the south side city limits is a show place of renown for fine Holsteins. In business life throughout the city he was a builder too, aiding in the establishment of a home laundry.

Yes, the monument to his industry and foresight, to his love for his farmer neighbors of Crow Wing county, may be found in the lowing herds of added productivity which have increased the competence of the dairymen and have improved dairying as well as agriculture in general in our district.

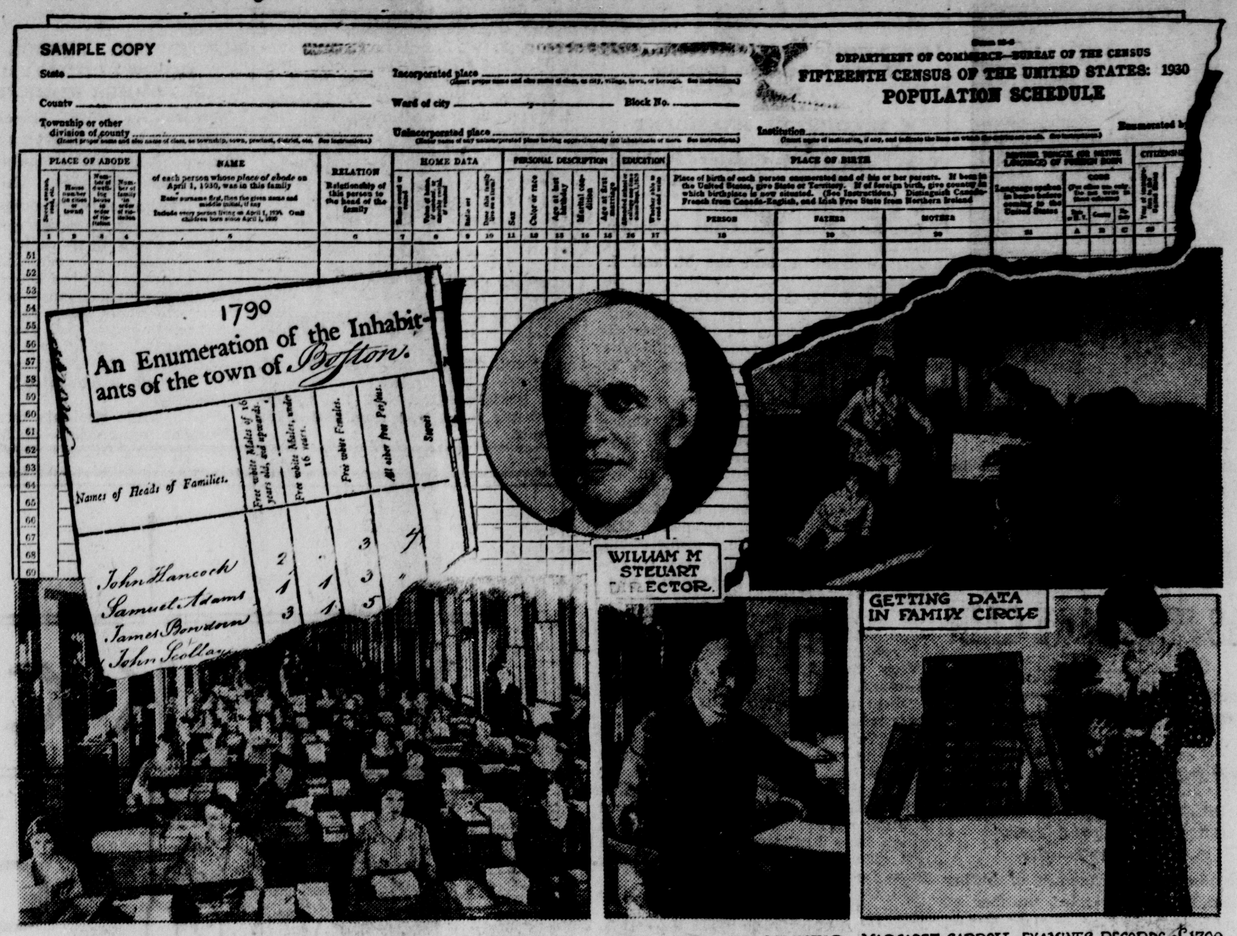

On Chasing One's Hat

GILBERT K. CHESTERTON in the Golden Book asserts there is a current impression that it is unpleasant to have to run after one's hat. Why should it be unpleasant to the well-ordered and pious mind? Not merely because it is running, and running exhausts one. The same people run much faster in games and sports. The same people run much more eagerly after an uninteresting little leather ball than they will after a nice silk hat.

There is an idea that it is humiliating to run after one's hat; and when people say it is humiliating they mean that it is comic. It certainly is comic; but man is a very comic creature, and most of the things he does are comic—eating, for instance. And the most comic things of all are exactly the things that are most worth doing—such as making love.

It is a far cry back to 1790, when the Federal census of the United States was taken. The Census Bureau has, like all other things, improved its system since the first census taking. Above illustration shows the extreme care which Uncle Sam takes in gathering and compiling data on his gigantic family. An interesting comparison in the illustration is that of the census taken in Boston in 1790 with its antiquated forms compared with the more practical form of 1930. Note the important names listed in the Boston census report, names of persons who played a part in the history of our country which have earned for them a place on history's pages. The compilation of the 1930 census will require the services of more than 100,000 people.

Big kernels in small shells

In addition to the advertisements of the big department stores, of the grocery and hardware stores, of the millinery, clothing and shoe stores, there is another kind of advertising that is being read more and more by readers of this newspaper. That kind of advertising is the Classified Columns.

A man or woman wants a job. They read the "Help Wanted" columns and probably insert an advertisement of their own under "Positions Wanted." Employer and job seeker soon get together to the benefit of both. A man may want an automobile—possibly he cannot afford a new car, so he looks in the "For Sale" columns and finds just the car at the price he can afford to pay. Some one has lost a pocketbook, valuable papers or even a pet dog. The "Lost and Found" columns soon bring loser and finder together.

The Classified Columns are so arranged that any one can readily find what he seeks quickly—business news, machinery and tools, household goods, horses, dogs, cats, canaries, etc. They enable you to locate what you are looking for in short order. So in reading advertising do not overlook the classified columns—the individual advertisements do not take up much room, but like the meaty nut they may contain a big kernel in a small shell—just for you.

BOB SHAWKEY ANNOUNCES HIS YANKEES SEASON LINEUP

BABE RUTH AT HIS OLD JOB OF RIGHT FIELDER

FIRST GAME APRIL 15 IS TO BE PLAYED WITH PHILADELPHIA ATHLETICS

RUTH IS IN GOOD SHAPE, FEELS OPTIMISTIC, PROMISES TO HAVE BIG YEAR

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 17.—(U.P.)—Bob Shawkey, new manager of the New York Yankees, made his first definite announcement today since he took charge of the club in training here.

Shawkey said that barring unforeseen happenings, the Yankees would line-up against the Athletics April 15 as follows:

Combs—center field.
Koenig, short stop.
Ruth, right field.
Gehrig—first base.
Lazzeri—second base.
Chapman—third base.
Dickey will do most all the catch-
Hoyt—pitcher.

Some of the other announcements made by Shawkey were:

Ruth is in good shape and promises to have a big year.

Chapman, St. Paul rookie, promises to be the best third baseman the Yanks have had since Joe Dugan was in his prime.

Polli, Henderson, Gomex and Rhodes are the four best young pitchers and three of them will be retained.

Dickey wil dlo most all the catching.

If Bengough's arm troubles him he will be retained as a coach.

Pennock will stage a great comeback and with Hoyt, Pipgras and Sherrid will form the big four.

Koenig will stay at short stop and will prove the best man in the American League at that position.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 17. — Manager Bill McKechnie said today the Boston Braves would not trade Pitcher Ed Brandt and Outfielder Lance Richburg to Brooklyn for holdout Babe Herman. "I wouldn't even claim Herman if Brooklyn asked waivers on him," added McKechnie, despite Herman's .281 batting average.

Fort Myers, Fla., March 17.—Outfielder Spencer Harris, who got his first major league tryout with the Philadelphia Athletics back in 1921, has been reclaimed by Connie Mack from the Detroit Tigers on waivers. Harris batted .340 for the Minneapolis A. A. club last season. He has had three major league trials but is only 29. The Athletics bought him from Tacoma, Wash., but put him out on option two seasons before they sold him to Bay City of the Michigan-Ontario League in 1924. He had a trial with the White Sox in 1925 and last spring was up for a tryout with Washington.

Biloxi, Miss., March 17.—Washington entered its last week of training here today with still no word from Goose Goslin, outfielder who is holding out. Goslin's alleged dislike of Manager Walter Johnson is believed to be causing part of the trouble.

Clearwater, Fla., March 17.—Dazzy Vance was left behind today suffering from a heavy cold when the Brooklyn Robins left for West Palm Beach to play the St. Louis Browns. He may be out of uniform for a couple of days.

West Palm Beach, Fla., March 17.—Shortstop Ralph Kress has agreed to terms with the St. Louis Browns but Outfielder Heinie Manush and Pitcher George Blaeholder continued to hold out.

ILLINOIS MAN IS BARELY 22 YEARS OLD

WITHIN PAST 2 WEEKS HE HAS SCORED RECORD BREAKING PERFORMANCES

THRICE IN A DAY HE BETTERS OLD TIME IN 75-YARD HIGH HURDLES

By BERT DEMBY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Chicago, March 17.—Always noted for its hurdlers, the University of Illinois now presents another in the person of Lee Sentman, who appears to have all the potentialities of becoming the greatest stick man of all time.

Barely 22 years old and a junior, this serious-minded young man within the past two wees has come forward with record breaking performances which were astounding even to his Illinois followers.

He climaxed a season of great indoor work last Saturday when he thrice in one day ran the 75-yard high hurdle race in better than the old record time, finally setting a new mark of 9.2 seconds, two-tenths of a second better than the old record.

Built ideally, Lee began his hurdle career while in high school at Dacatur, Ill., and before he finished his prep career he held the Illinois interscholastic title in both the high and low events.

His success was not so great in his first year of Big Ten competition last year, but he suddenly lashed into great form at the beginning of the 1930 season. Since then he has been unbeatable.

NEW YORK RANGERS' BIG DEFENSE PLAYER STRENGTHENS THE HOCKEY TEAM

New York, March 17.—(U.P.)—The return of Ching Johnson, New York Rangers' big defense player, to the lineup has strengthened Les Patrick's hockey team for the national league hockey playoffs which commence Thursday night.

With Johnson, who has been on the sidelines for six weeks with a triple fracture of the jaw, at his post, the Rangers defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates last night in an overtime game, 4 to 3.

The Rangers have one more game to play and have an outside chance to and second place in the American group. The rangers, with 44 points, are now trailing the Chicago Black Hawks by a lone point.

CHING JOHNSON BACK IN LINE-UP

NEW YORK RANGERS' BIG DEFENSE PLAYER STRENGTHENS THE HOCKEY TEAM

New York, March 17.—(U.P.)—The return of Ching Johnson, New York Rangers' big defense player, to the lineup has strengthened Les Patrick's hockey team for the national league hockey playoffs which commence Thursday night.

With Johnson, who has been on the sidelines for six weeks with a triple fracture of the jaw, at his post, the Rangers defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates last night in an overtime game, 1 to 3.

The Rangers have one more game to play and have an outside chance to and second place in the American group. The rangers, with 44 points, are now trailing the Chicago Black Hawks by a lone point.

He tried to "get away" . . . but they caught him in the act. And remember, more than half of all cigars made in this country are made by hand, and therefore subject to the risk of spit!

Smoke Certified Cremo and protect yourself against this abomination! Every tobacco leaf entering the clean, sunny Certified Cremo factories is scientifically treated by methods recommended by the United States Department of Agriculture. Modernization of Home Requires Little Investment

IMPROVING THE HOME OFTEN COSTS LITTLE

$2,000 is Average Cost of Modernization

One of the early questions that rises in the minds of the home owner who contemplates modernization is that of costs.

"What will it cost me to modernize my home?" is the question that is constantly raised.

The answer to such a question logically depends on the condition of the home, its size, the amount of modernizing to be done and other subjects of similar nature.

Old Houses Require Greater Expenditure

Obviously the house that was built back in the gay nineties when many of the common conveniences of today were unknown, will require a greater expenditure of money than the dwelling that was constructed ten or fifteen years ago.

The old house of the day of Free Silver has an architectural style that is obsolete. The ginger bread trimming, the ill-arranged rooms and the lack of up-to-date fixtures call for a thorough modernization.

On the other hand, a house that was built ten or fifteen years ago has many of the conveniences that are standard today. It may require a new heating plant, a sun porch, up to date electrical fixtures, or more pleasing interior decorations.

The older the house the more the cost of modernizing will be.

Average Cost $2000

An investigation into the costs of modernizing various homes disclosed that the average cost of modernization was in the neighborhood of $2,000.

This investigation covered over 100,000 homes and was conducted by an organization in a position to secure accurate figures--a state league of building and loan associations. They knew almost to a penny the actual amount spent on modernizatiion by various home owners who submitted their modernizing plans when applying for loans.

Figures secured from other independent sources go to prove the accuracy of this estimate. $2,000 is a fair amount to set up as the average cost of modernizing a home.

Home Stood Idle

An instance is related of one house that stood idle for many months due to its poor condition. This house was constructed back in the days when stove heat was universal. It had no cellar nor modern lighting. It was ugly, run-down and apparently worthless.

Finally the house was modernized. A basement was excavated and a heating plant installed. New floors, a bathroom, a sleeping porch, up-to-date electrical fixtures and a new front porch were a part of the program. The house was completed and immediately rented. It is bringing in a steady income--and the modernizing expense amounted to $1,823.

STUCCO BUILDINGS MAY BE CLEANED BY WASHING

Af ter a stucco home has been in use for a number of years stains and dirt accumulate on the side walls. This is a common condition with any type of house but with stucco painting is not necessary as with wooden siding. A thorough cleaning only is needed.

The New Bath Room a Great Contrast to Old Timer

These views show the great strides made in beautifying the bathroom. Above is a compact little room with modern appointments such as shower and built-in tub.

MODERN BATH COMPACT, NEAT AND SANITARY

The great advance in bathroom fixtures is illustrated forcefully by the before and after illustrations on this page.

The view at the bottom shows a typical bathroom of yester-year. It is a bare, dingy room, gloomy and ill ventilated. The fixtures are in style many years ago and their presence is today a sign that modernization is needed.

In contrast look at the view to the left. Note the handsome fixtures and evidence of good taste.

Modern Bathroom Compact

The modern bathroom is designed to utilize every square foot of space. The fixtures fit snugly without crowding. Careful planning can adapt even as small a room as 6x7½ feet so that it has a spacious look.

In this particular installation the floor and wainscotting are linoleum which is easily cleaned. Often tiles are placed on the floor and form the wainscot. The upper walls are finished in plaster, painted to harmonize with the wainscot. This wall may be covered with canvas, sheeting, wall paper or chintz. Whatever the material it should be finished with shellac or enamel to protect it.

The radiator is set in a recess in the wall and protected by a grille. The use of a recess conserves space in a small room.

Mirror Flanked by Lights

The mirror is hinged, opening on a cabinet for toilet articles. On each side of the mirror are electric lamps with frosted bulbs which give a clear, soft light.

The enamel bath sets on the floor, thus preventing an accumulation of dust beneath. It is low, with a flat bottom and straight sides, designed to prevent slipping when stepping or out of the tub.

Overhead is the shower which is controlled from the side of the wall. The shower curtain will be noted against the wall.

The syphon jet closet has a low tank. Its modern construction makes it practically free from noise. The lavatory has a substantial pedestal. A knob controls the direct lift of the waste which gives a quiet, free flow.

The keen appreciation of colors in interior decorations is reflected nowadays in the bathroom. From cald, white-walled cells, where sanitation was the dominant keynote, many of the more recent designs in bathroom fixtures have been tinted in quiet tones that transform these little rooms into charming little chambers.

ROCK TERRACES TO BEAUTIFY STEEP SLOPES

A deep cut made when grading the street before the home often leaves the house with a steep slope leading to the lawn above. The problem of caring for this slope so that it will not wash away with succeeding rains has been solved by making a rock terrace to hold back the soil and at the same time beautify the approach to the house.

Rock terraces are made by digging out the soil, placing boulders into the sunken holes and filling up the space about the rocks with good soil in which are planted rock plants.

F. H. GRUENHAGEN'S DEATH IS GREAT LOSS

Dean of Better Stock Movement, Leader of City and County Progressiveness, Dies

SHORT ILLNESS CLAIMS HIM

Former President of Chamber of Commerce, Alderman, Finance Figure of Note

Brainerd and Crow Wing county felt today severely the loss of one of its most public spirited men, a man who gave his untiring efforts towards the improvement of the city and county to such an end that his generosity in work hastened the close of his life.

Such a man was F. H. Gruenhagen, dean of the Crow Wing County Better Sires Association, former president of the Chamber of Commerce, alderman of the city council, finance man instrumental in raising funds for civic betterment organizations, and president of one of the most progressive business enterprises in the county, The Gruenhagen Co. located at 217 South Seventh street.

"Get F. H., he's the man for it," committees would say in discussing problems of finance raising for the benefit of the Chamber of Commerce, county dairying, Y. M. C. A. work, his church, the city, county.

And F. H. Gruenhagen accepted, put his heart and body into the work and the project under consideration became a reality. He always finished what he started to do. That was what made him one of the greatest men the county has known since its existence.

Of physical strength to be envied Mr. Gruenhagen was at no time ill, with possibly the exception of a few minor ailments, until the recent illness which brought about his death at 5 a. m. Sunday at his home, 524 South 8th street.

Of such sturdy a frame and family stock Mr. Gruenhagen little realized the extent of his illness which affected his heart on February 14. He looked forward to when he would again resume an active part in his business affairs and public affairs. He passed his 60th year of life on February 20.

His end came suddenly and without suffering. Members of his family were with him at his bedside, and to these went expressions of sympathy from his close friends who learned of his death early yesterday. Hundreds will mourn his loss. His enemies were few and any such were unjust. His friends were many. These appreciate in no small way what Mr. Gruenhagen has meant to them and the county.

Condolences were sent to Mrs. Emelia Gruenhagen, his widow; Fred Jr., his son who is a student at the University of Minnesota; W. H. Gruenhagen, St. Paul, Adolph Gruenhagen, Norwood, Minn., and Edward D. Gruenhagen, Brainerd, brothers; and Mrs. Emma Teborg, Norwood, Minn., Mrs. August Harms, Norwood, and Mrs. Bertha Schnewind, Waconia, Minn., sisters.

Respect to the man will further be exemplified by his large host of friends, business associates, at burial rites Tuesday afternoon. Home rites will be conducted at 2:15 o'clock, the funeral cortege to arrive at the Zion Evangelical Lutheran church, corner of 8th and Main streets at 2:30 o'clock. Rev. F. C. Rathert will officiate at the services. The remains will be interred at Evergren cemetery.

Friends who have worked with him and who cherish memories of his loyalty to Brainerd and the county will be pallbearers and honorary pallbearers. They will be: pallbearers, E. H. Huseman, Herman Haase, Frank Blank, Edward Engel, A. T. Fisher, Edgar Olson; honorary pallbearers, Con O'Brien, H. P. Dunn, S. R. Adair, A. M. Opsahl, Claus A. Theorin, O. B. Johnson.

In City 40 Years

Mr. Gruenhagen was a resident of Crow Wing county for 40 years. He was born at Norwood, Carver county, Minn., where he attended schools and lived until he was 19 years old. He came to Brainerd in 1889 and was married on May 12, 1892, to Miss Emelia Albrecht of St. Cloud. From 1889 to 1896 he worked as a tinner for Slipp Brothers and in 1896 started in business for himself in the old Walker block doing plumbing and heating and conducting a bicycle agency. In 1901 he built the Gruenhagen block and moved his business there. In 1904 he incorporated under the name of Slipp-Gruenhagen Co. and changed to The Gruenhagen Co. in 1920, the present corporation, and dealers in hardware and furniture, plumbing and heating and assemblers and jobbers of the Brainerd 10,000 Lakes fishing tackle.

Because he realized that the success of dairying rested with better stock he entered heart and soul into the work of building up the stock of the county. He was one of the principal sponsors of the Crow Wing County Pure Bred Sires Association which has expanded to produce better cows and greater profits for the farmers of Crow Wing county.

His Chamber of Commerce Work

Possibly his greatest work for the city and county in a civic way was done through the Chamber of Commerce where his advice and assistance was constantly solicited. He served as president of the Chamber for two years, 1924 and 1925 and has been a member of the Board of Directors since that time. Recognized as a man with keen financial judgment he was named chairman of the finance committee three years ago and has held that office since. Promotion of the Pure Bred Sires association came about through his zealous efforts while president of the Chamber and his committee work in raising funds for the project.

Business Interests

Besides his interests in The Gruenhagen Co., Mr. Gruenhagen was also financially and actively interested in the growth of The Echo Stock Farms Inc. operating interests in Crow Wing and Ottertail counties with 300 head of registered Holsteins.

His business enterprises also extended to include interest in The Brainerd Laundry which building The Gruenhagen Co. owned.

When Harrison and Start, owners of Pine Beach Golf Course, asked Brainerd to assist them in securing finances for the construction of an hotel there to further interest tourists in spending their vacations in the Brainerd Lake Region Mr. Gruenhagen was named on a committee that made the raising of sufficient money possible to insure the construction of the hotel which is now near completion on Gull Lake.

Carl Zapffe, superintendent of ore properties of the N. P. Railway Co.: "No one excelled him in putting his civic spirit into action. His loyalty to and his efforts in behalf of the Chamber of Commerce when help was needed most can well be accepted as a standard of ideal service to a community in such lines of activities. He was always receptive to proposals which would help make Brainerd a better business center for everybody, and was always ready and willing to lead or to lend active asistance. He had that craving for action, which was continually evident and was not for the purpose of passing the buck to someone else. He had good ideals and good business ethics. The entire city suffers a distinct loss in his demise. His was a strong personality and it left its imprint on the community."

H. P. Dunn, druggist: "One of our most public spirited citizens, in the death of F. H. Gruenhagen, this city has suffered a great loss."

F. W. Wieland, publisher of The Brainerd Dispatch: "In the death of Fred Gauenhagen the city and county has lost one of its most progressive an denterprising citizens. Every plan for city and county betterment always received his earnest support."

D. C. Gray, Gould-Gray Co.: "In the passing of Fred Gruenhagen the city of Brainerd has lost one of its most public spirited supporters. Always ready and first to lend a hand in turning the wheels of progress which has put our city in the state's foremost ranks. I personally will miss a sincere friend."

A. M. Opsahl, representative: "In the passing of F. H. Gruenhagen, we have lost a most loyal, enterprising and public spirited citizen. He has done many fine things for this community and his place will be hard to fill. Brainerd has lost a true friend."

R. J. Tinkelpaugh, president of the Citizens State bank of Brainerd: "I regret the passing of F. H. Gruenhagen and I know that he will be missed by a great many of his friends."

County Agent E. G. Roth: "Fred Gruenhagen was one of the sponsors of the Crow Wing County Pure Bred Sires Association which has meant so much to the dairy industry of the county. He was a member of the Chamber of Commerce committee that raised funds to make this project possible."

G. D. LaBar, president of the First National bank of Brainerd: "A great loss to Brainerd and Crow Wing county of a valuable citizen, one who has been active in all public affairs for many years. Such an active and useful citizen the community will sadly miss and the sincere sympathy of a host of friends will go forth to the members of his family."

Con O'Brien, president of the O'Brien Mercantile Co.: "Words cannot express the loss which Mr. Gruenhagen's death means to the city and county. This city has lost one of its most valuable men and one which the Chamber of Commerce can never fill his place."

C. A. Ryan, president of the Chamber of Commerce: "The passing of Fred Gruenhagen is an immeasurable loss to our community. The passage of time will bring home to us in a way now difficult of appreciation the depth of his devotion to the community in which he lived and served for 40 years. He was always in call for the most difficult work. He responded unfailingly no matter what the task. His passing is a personal loss. He was a sincere friend, and his words of counsel and encouragement to me in the affairs and problems of our Chamber of Commerce have done much to make that work a matter of interest and enjoyment. We have suffered a great loss."

S. R. Adair, county treasurer: "In the death of F. H. Gruenhagen the city of Brainerd and Crow Wing county have suffered a great loss. Fred was at all times interested in and gave his time and money for the welfare of the city and county and was especially interested in the better of dairy stock, in Y. M. C. A and Boy Scout work. We will miss him greatly."

The Board of Directors of the Brainerd Credit Bureau today requested that all business and professional men in the city close their places of business during the hour of 2:15 p. m. to 3:15 p. m. Tuesday to permit attendance at the funeral. Mr. Gruenhagen was a director of the Brainerd Credit Bureau.

The body will lie in state at the church from 9 a. m. to 11 a. m. tomorrow to permit those desiring to see him to do so.

Yesterday afternoon at the Methodist church the last meeting prior to the holding of the convention of the third annual State Young People's conference, was held by the chairmen, committee members and advisors at the M. The members of the Federated Council of Young People of Brainerd are all enthusiastic regarding the coming convention.

H. L. Stright, general secretary, St. Paul, and Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Jamieson of St. Paul were present yesterday and reviewed the work of the committees. Mr. Stright reported he had heard from delegations from several of the cities. There will be a large delegation coming up from the Faribault ditrict, he said. They will make the trip in a truck. Solicitation Committee this Afternoon Subdivides its Labors in Calling on Merchants

Spring Trade Week, March 24 to 29, is to be a real success and it is based on the actual cooperation being given by merchants of the city who are whole-heartedly entering into the spirit of the occasion.

This morning the committee on solicitation of prizes, George D. Irwin, O. A. Peterson, James M. Owen and W. P. Tyrholm, interviewed 20 merchants and these men were unanimous in their decision to donate prizes to stimulate business and to enter into all the phases of the week to stir up new business for Brainerd and thus extend its trade territory.

This afternoon the solicitation committee subdivided its work, each member being assigned a district. Every one now seems so fully agreed upon the purposes of Spring Trade Week and the benefits accruing that a quick decision to join is made when a committee member calls for cooperation in the project.

Cards have been arranged for to be set in the windows of cooperating merchants announcing Spring Trade Week.

The Publix theatre, one of the first to join the movement, started Sunday with a trailer advertising Spring Trade Week. Screen advertising calls attention to the benefits of Spring Trade Week, the special bargains offered and urges all to shop in Brainerd. The lobby carries notices and pennants will be swung in the street adjoining.

Brainerd will be a veritable show place next week. Windows will be specially trimmed with spring merchandise and stores will vie in the art of window dressing.

Brainerd will be made the shopping center of central Minnesota.

F. H. GRUENHAGEN'S DEATH IS GREAT LOSS

SHORT ILLNESS CLAIMS HIM

Former President of Chamber of Commerce, Alderman, Finance Figure of Note

Brainerd and Crow Wing county felt today severely the loss of one of its most public spirited men, a man who gave his untiring efforts towards the improvement of the city and county to such an end that his generosity in work hastened the close of his life.

Such a man was F. H. Gruenhagen, dean of the Crow Wing County Better Sires Association, former president of the Chamber of Commerce, alderman of the city council, finance man instrumental in raising funds for civic betterment organizations, and president of one of the most progressive business enterprises in the county, The Gruenhagen Co. located at 217 South Seventh street.

"Get F. H., he's the man for it," committees would say in discussing problems of finance raising for the benefit of the Chamber of Commerce, county dairying, Y. M. C. A. work, his church, the city, county.

And F. H. Gruenhagen accepted, put his heart and body into the work and the project under consideration became a reality. He always finished what he started to do. That was what made him one of the greatest men the county has known since its existence.

Of physical strength to be envied Mr. Gruenhagen was at no time ill, with possibly the exception of a few minor ailments, until the recent illness which brought about his death at 5 a. m. Sunday at his home, 524 South 8th street.

Of such sturdy a frame and family stock Mr. Gruenhagen little realized the extent of his illness which affected his heart on February 14. He looked forward to when he would again resume an active part in his business affairs and public affairs. He passed his 60th year of life on February 20.

His end came suddenly and without suffering. Members of his family were with him at his bedside, and to these went expressions of sympathy from his close friends who learned of his death early yesterday. Hundreds will mourn his loss. His enemies were few and any such were unjust. His friends were many. These appreciate in no small way what Mr. Gruenhagen has meant to them and the county.

Condolences were sent to Mrs. Emelia Gruenhagen, his widow; Fred Jr., his son who is a student at the University of Minnesota; W. H. Gruenhagen, St. Paul, Adolph Gruenhagen, Norwood, Minn., and Edward D. Gruenhagen, Brainerd, brothers; and Mrs. Emma Teborg, Norwood, Minn., Mrs. August Harms, Norwood, and Mrs. Bertha Schnewind, Waconia, Minn., sisters.

Respect to the man will further be exemplified by his large host of friends, business associates, at burial rites Tuesday afternoon. Home rites will be conducted at 2:15 o'clock, the funeral cortege to arrive at the Zion Evangelical Lutheran church, corner of 8th and Main streets at 2:30 o'clock. Rev. F. C. Rathert will officiate at the services. The remains will be interred at Evergren cemetery.

Friends who have worked with him and who cherish memories of his loyalty to Brainerd and the county will be pallbearers and honorary pallbearers. They will be: pallbearers, E. H. Huseman, Herman Haase, Frank Blank, Edward Engel, A. T. Fisher, Edgar Olson; honorary pallbearers, Con O'Brien, H. P. Dunn, S. R. Adair, A. M. Opsahl, Claus A. Theorin, O. B. Johnson.

In City 40 Years

Mr. Gruenhagen was a resident of Crow Wing county for 40 years. He was born at Norwood, Carver county, Minn., where he attended schools and lived until he was 19 years old. He came to Brainerd in 1889 and was married on May 12, 1892, to Miss Emelia Albrecht of St. Cloud. From 1889 to 1896 he worked as a tinner for Slipp Brothers and in 1896 started in business for himself in the old Walker block doing plumbing and heating and conducting a bicycle agency. In 1901 he built the Gruenhagen block and moved his business there. In 1904 he incorporated under the name of Slipp-Gruenhagen Co. and changed to The Gruenhagen Co. in 1920, the present corporation, and dealers in hardware and furniture, plumbing and heating and assemblers and jobbers of the Brainerd 10,000 Lakes fishing tackle.

Because he realized that the success of dairying rested with better stock he entered heart and soul into the work of building up the stock of the county. He was one of the principal sponsors of the Crow Wing County Pure Bred Sires Association which has expanded to produce better cows and greater profits for the farmers of Crow Wing county.

His Chamber of Commerce Work

Possibly his greatest work for the city and county in a civic way was done through the Chamber of Commerce where his advice and assistance was constantly solicited. He served as president of the Chamber for two years, 1924 and 1925 and has been a member of the Board of Directors since that time. Recognized as a man with keen financial judgment he was named chairman of the finance committee three years ago and has held that office since. Promotion of the Pure Bred Sires association came about through his zealous efforts while president of the Chamber and his committee work in raising funds for the project.

Business Interests

Besides his interests in The Gruenhagen Co., Mr. Gruenhagen was also financially and actively interested in the growth of The Echo Stock Farms Inc. operating interests in Crow Wing and Ottertail counties with 300 head of registered Holsteins.

His business enterprises also extended to include interest in The Brainerd Laundry which building The Gruenhagen Co. owned.

When Harrison and Start, owners of Pine Beach Golf Course, asked Brainerd to assist them in securing finances for the construction of an hotel there to further interest tourists in spending their vacations in the Brainerd Lake Region Mr. Gruenhagen was named on a committee that made the raising of sufficient money possible to insure the construction of the hotel which is now near completion on Gull Lake.

Carl Zapffe, superintendent of ore properties of the N. P. Railway Co.: "No one excelled him in putting his civic spirit into action. His loyalty to and his efforts in behalf of the Chamber of Commerce when help was needed most can well be accepted as a standard of ideal service to a community in such lines of activities. He was always receptive to proposals which would help make Brainerd a better business center for everybody, and was always ready and willing to lead or to lend active asistance. He had that craving for action, which was continually evident and was not for the purpose of passing the buck to someone else. He had good ideals and good business ethics. The entire city suffers a distinct loss in his demise. His was a strong personality and it left its imprint on the community."

H. P. Dunn, druggist: "One of our most public spirited citizens, in the death of F. H. Gruenhagen, this city has suffered a great loss."

F. W. Wieland, publisher of The Brainerd Dispatch: "In the death of Fred Gauenhagen the city and county has lost one of its most progressive an denterprising citizens. Every plan for city and county betterment always received his earnest support."

D. C. Gray, Gould-Gray Co.: "In the passing of Fred Gruenhagen the city of Brainerd has lost one of its most public spirited supporters. Always ready and first to lend a hand in turning the wheels of progress which has put our city in the state's foremost ranks. I personally will miss a sincere friend."

A. M. Opsahl, representative: "In the passing of F. H. Gruenhagen, we have lost a most loyal, enterprising and public spirited citizen. He has done many fine things for this community and his place will be hard to fill. Brainerd has lost a true friend."

R. J. Tinkelpaugh, president of the Citizens State bank of Brainerd: "I regret the passing of F. H. Gruenhagen and I know that he will be missed by a great many of his friends."

County Agent E. G. Roth: "Fred Gruenhagen was one of the sponsors of the Crow Wing County Pure Bred Sires Association which has meant so much to the dairy industry of the county. He was a member of the Chamber of Commerce committee that raised funds to make this project possible."

G. D. LaBar, president of the First National bank of Brainerd: "A great loss to Brainerd and Crow Wing county of a valuable citizen, one who has been active in all public affairs for many years. Such an active and useful citizen the community will sadly miss and the sincere sympathy of a host of friends will go forth to the members of his family."

Con O'Brien, president of the O'Brien Mercantile Co.: "Words cannot express the loss which Mr. Gruenhagen's death means to the city and county. This city has lost one of its most valuable men and one which the Chamber of Commerce can never fill his place."

C. A. Ryan, president of the Chamber of Commerce: "The passing of Fred Gruenhagen is an immeasurable loss to our community. The passage of time will bring home to us in a way now difficult of appreciation the depth of his devotion to the community in which he lived and served for 40 years. He was always in call for the most difficult work. He responded unfailingly no matter what the task. His passing is a personal loss. He was a sincere friend, and his words of counsel and encouragement to me in the affairs and problems of our Chamber of Commerce have done much to make that work a matter of interest and enjoyment. We have suffered a great loss."

S. R. Adair, county treasurer: "In the death of F. H. Gruenhagen the city of Brainerd and Crow Wing county have suffered a great loss. Fred was at all times interested in and gave his time and money for the welfare of the city and county and was especially interested in the better of dairy stock, in Y. M. C. A and Boy Scout work. We will miss him greatly."

The Board of Directors of the Brainerd Credit Bureau today requested that all business and professional men in the city close their places of business during the hour of 2:15 p. m. to 3:15 p. m. Tuesday to permit attendance at the funeral. Mr. Gruenhagen was a director of the Brainerd Credit Bureau.

The body will lie in state at the church from 9 a. m. to 11 a. m. tomorrow to permit those desiring to see him to do so.

"MASTER of MONEY"
BY ROY VICKERS

CHAPTER XXXII.

"COACHMAN!" echoed Alan. "It's a good thing that fellow doesn't understand English. That is the patron. By a series of mortgages he probably owns the greater part of this outfit. The driver is his paid servant and he lives on the difference."

They drove out of the dock gates; Shirley, ignoring the dirtiness of the gharri, looked about her.

They were passing through a narrow sidestreet with a view of the main street ahead of them.

"You'll find bits of every place here — and of every time," answered Alan. "You'll find bits of the history of every country in the world walking about."

They turned into the main road, narrowly escaping collision with the latest model of a Rolls-Royce driven by a liveried chauffeur. On the other side of the Rol's-Royce was a team of four oxen drawing a cart laden with beer barrels, in charge of a driver in flowing robes and a dirty red headdress.

"Look at those two things!" exclaimed Alan. "There's some three or four thousand years between them—and neither of them is out of place here."

Presently they seemed to be passing out of the city proper into a suburban quarter. In a quiet square of comparatively modern stuccoed buildings, the gharri stopped.

"This is the Lutetia," said Alan. "I stayed here once before and, as far as I can remember, it should be good enough." As they walked through the revolving glass doors he added: "It's run by a quiet, decent Armenian—"

"Not now, boss," said a sleek man standing in the lounge.

Alan turned.

"Oh, you've bought the place, have you!" he exclaimed. "I gather you're American."

"No. I'm a Bulgarian," explained the man. "But I've had fifteen years' experience in New York. Andropoulides, who had the place before me, is dead. So are his wife and child. He had a bit too much to say to the police."

Alan nodded indifferently. Shirley wondered what the man meant by trouble with the police.

The hotel seemed confortable enough at first sight, though the proprietor was unable to provide them with a private sitting-room. They engaged three bedrooms in each of which was a reproduction of the statue of Liberty and two religious subjects.

"I'd better go and see about that luggage of ours," said Alan when they had inspected their rooms. "The lobby here is quite decent and if I were you I'd stay there. We'll go on a tour of inspection when I get back."

In the lobby Shirley endured the conversation of the proprietor for an hour, at the end of which, being called away, he presented her with a copy of La Vie Parisienne and of a three-months-old New York paper. For another two hours she endured the boredom of total inactivity and then, seeing the proprietor return, decided to go out.

She found another main road turning into the heart of the city, then, fascinated with the sights and sounds about her, walked on. Presently, a few yards ahead of her a door opened and out of it ran an elderly Jew, crying loudly, the tears streaming down his cheeks. At the same time, behind her, she heard Alan's voice.

"Look out! There's going to be trouble!"

She turned round and as she turned had a fleeting glimpse of three men surrounding the Jew. Then came the hoarse scream of a man in mortal agony.

Alan was urging her to a run. Running towards them was a policeman, who drew his revolver and fired. Instantly there came an answering report from behind them.

The next moment Alan picked her up in his arms and whisked her to a doorway. The door was locked, but the brickwork on either side was just wide enough to shield them from a chance bullet.

Alan's arms were about her, crushing her so that she could not breathe. At that moment all fear had left her.

"His back is exposed. He is risking his life for me," ran her thoughts.

"Why the devil did you leave that hotel when I told you not to?" he growled at her — it seemed hours later.

"I don't know. I was bored waiting for you. I'm very sorry, Alan. Is it all over?"

"Yes. Don't look behind you. We'd better go back and have some lunch."

* * *

By the end of the first month Shirley had interviewed a number of minor officials, obtaining from them illusory promises and accomplishing in fact nothing whatever towards obtaining a grant of military protection.

But in other respects the month had not been wasted. She had become familiar with the city and such of the customs of its inhabitants as concerned herself and her mission. Also she had acquired a house.

Alan had been against taking a house as soon as she had mentioned it, and had never explained his reasons. Finally the boredom resulting from a lack of privacy at the hotel had won him over.

They had taken the furnished house of a once prosperous native of apparently modern sympathies, for the house was well furnished throughout. It was pleasant enough even if judged by American standards. It had twelve rooms and a garden that sloped down to the tideless sea. A house that would have been commonplace enough in any Long Island bay, but for the fact that house, garden and waterfront were surrounded by spiked iron palings twelve feet high.

Shirley had been puzzled by the palings, thinking them a mistaken form of decoration until Alan explained.

"Wait till you see an excited mob of a thousand or so Mussulmen running amuck—you'll be glad enough of the palings then," he had told her. And she had looked from the massive oak sideboard to the rest of the furniture and tried to imagine the frenzied Mussulmen.

The task of housekeeping she had not attempted and a Spanish Jewess looked after the Greek cook and two housemaids, and on the whole made a very good job of it.

While she was making her futile journeys to the various municipal offices, Alan was actively employed in inspecting and overhauling the local depot of Macedonian Developments.

"Things seem to be in a rather better state down here than the report led me to believe," he told her one day. "I shall make a trip up country this week and inspect the mines and the track that's already laid. In the meantime, if you want help with your end of the stick, let me know."

"Am I being too slow, Alan?"

"No. I didn't mean you to take that remark as a criticism."

"I can't really tell yet whether I am likely to do any good or not," she said thoughtfully. "I am working my way through a lot of nonentities and sifting them out—and it takes time to discover that they are nonentities. Tomorrow I'm seeing the Commissioner. Judging by the difficulty of running him to earth, he's rather exclusive."

They were sitting over the fire after dinner. It was now the middle of November and a spell of cold weather had set in. Alan was looking through an account book while she was turning the pages of a catalogue. Suddenly she laughed and he looked up.

"Feeling a bit nervous?" he asked.

"I was thinking how funnily it has all turned out," she answered. "You made me think of something dangerous and thrilling when you talked of Macedonia. It's all frightfully picturesque, of course, and interesting in its way, but I go out every morning in a comfortable hired car, do a bit of shopping and talk to polite officials. And in the evening—well, look at us. It may be the influence of this dreadful furniture but I feel that we are becoming exactly like an ordinary American suburban couple."

There was a long silence and she thought that he had returned his attention to the account book. But presently he spoke:

"Except that we are not a 'couple,' Shirley."

"You are very literal," she objected lightly.

Inexplicably to her, the words had hurt her. Inexplicably, too, there had leaped into her mind that moment when his arms had been about her, shielding her from the chance of being hit by a stray bullet in the street.

"I suppose the truth is you get frightfully bored with the evenings here?" he suggested.

"And sigh for the old days?" she supplemented. "You're wrong, Alan. I'm not bored here with you. You couldn't bore me if you tried."

To her surprise he slammed the notebook and tucked it under his arm.

"I'm most gratified to hear that, Shirley," he rasped back. "But I feel in very special danger of boring you tonight. And as I don't want to spoil my reputation I'll go to bed. Good night."

Shirley was amazed. This, she sensed, was no ordinary outburst of bearishness. His voice had sounded definitely angry. For long she sat by herself, puzzling her brain to discover how she had offended him.

At breakfast on the following morning he seemed to have forgotten the incident, and she, too, had put it out of her mind by the time the hired car was waiting for her.

"Good luck with the Commissioner!" he said amiably as she left the house.

Shirley felt that she was going to have good luck with the Commissioner. Perhaps it was the really sumptuous offices that gave her that impression. She was shown into an ante-room that might have formed part of a royal suite, where, after some delay, a minor official requested her to sign a caller's book, giving particulars of herself.

She signed the book as "Mrs. Alan Bennaway," after which the minor official made small conversation with her for a full hour; then, glancing at the clock, he exclaimed abruptly:

"Monsieur Stavros awaits your pleasure, madame."

The Commissioner, a puffy Greek in early middle-age, got up as she entered and then sat down abruptly as if his getting up had been a mistake—as, indeed, it had been.

"This is the first time I have had the pleasure of addressing an American lady," he said in fluent French, "Is it possible that I can have the good fortune of being of some service?"

"The Commissioner is too kind," responded Shirley, and then listened patiently to a disclaimer on the part of the Commissioner and a panegyric of the riches of America.

Marilyn Miller, the famous Broadway musical comedy star, who scored outstanding success in three brilliant Ziegfeld shows, "Sally," "Sunny" and "Rosalie," makes her debut on the audible screen in First National's all-talking and singing version of "Sally," considered by many to be Miss Miller's greatest success. In bringing this famous Marilyn Miller—Flo Ziegfeld triumph to the audible screen, First National has photographed it entirely in natural colors and has endowed it with new songs, new dances, stunning sets and a great cast of stage and screen favorites. The result is entertainment that is sure to please yuong and old; a dazzling array of song, dance, romance and spectacle that is soothing to the eye and delightful to the ear.

John Francis Dillon directed "Sally" which will be presented at the Paramount theatre tonight, Tuesday and Wednesday.

FAST MEN TO TRY FOR RELAY MARK

BRAINERD HIGH HOPES TO SEND TEAM TO MINNESOTA RELAYS APRIL 6

Relay trials against time will be conducted by Coach Warren Kasch at the Washington high school this week to determine if a team of four can be secured to represent the school in the Minnesota Relays at the University of Minnesota field house on April 6.

The runners must meet a certain speed before being eligible to compete.

Among those who will try for places are:

Hoffbauer, basketball letter man and winner of the 220 low hurdles last year.

Lammon, who was in the relay team for Brainerd high last year and who won second in the 440-yard race in the district meet.

Hogan, who displayed speed in football last year.

Moe, who won the half mile in the district meet.

SPORTS KAYOES

By "HAPPY"

Primo Carnera will make his tenth American appearance this evening at St. Louis, where he will clash with Chuck Wiggins, the old heavyweight trail horse from Indianapolis. Chuck has fought some good men in his day and despite the clowning which has always characterized his bouts, he has been a pretty fair boxer. He will be the best man who has faced Primo to date on his American tour.

* * *

They are having a St. Patrick's Day fight card in St. Paul tonight. Jock Malone meets Gorilla Jones, the Akron negro, in a ten-round wind-up bout. Jones has knocked out 13 of his last 25 opponents and scored knockdowns in 28 of the last 29. Not bad! It will be the old, old story of a boxer against a puncher for Jones makes no pretense of being a boxer.

* * *

The Eveleth Rangers defeated the Hibbing Maroons, 1-0, after three overtime periods yesterday afternoon at the Minneapolis auditorium to win the state amateur hockey title.

* * *

It took five runs in the ninth inning yesterday for the Minneapolis Millers to defeat the Little Rock Travelers of the Southern Association in an exhibition game at Hot Springs. The score was 15-14 and seven pitchers were nicked for 37 bingles during the wild afternoon. Moon, Eckert and Bannabee worked on the mound for the Millers.

Coach Kasch loses Guin, Hautala, B. Foster and Hoffbauer through graduation this year. Two of these men are regulars whom it will be hard to replace and their loss will be felt seriously, but the situation is not as bad as it seems at first. Kasch will have Schuety, E. Foster, Clausen and Garvey of this year's first string as a nucleus for next year's club. In addition to that he has Marshall and Patterson. Patterson looks as though he will develop into a first class center before next year's playing season is over. And then Kasch has Mayo, Gabiou, White and Templeton from this year's seconds. No, things don't look so dark!

* * *

Coach Woock of Crosby-Ironton will not be as hard hit by graduation as will Kasch. True, he will lose four of his warriors, just the same as Kasch, but his men will not be so hard to replace. Woock was blessed this year with substitutes that were just as strong as his regulars. Kasch was not that fortunate.

* * *

A few young people were enjoying a bit of tennis in Gregory Park yesterday. It shouldn't be so long now until those courts will be used regularly. And some of the boys will be practicing for participation in the tournaments for the city singles and doubles championships.

SEARCH FOR BURGLAR WHO KILLED SHERIFF

Honor, Mich., March 17—(U.P.)—Fresh crews today relieved the weary searchers who last night deployed the Platte lake swamps for the burglar who shot and killed Under Sheriff Edward M. Rarey of Beulah, at a deserted cottage Sunday.

Kenneth Fewlass, prosecutor of Benzi county and Lieut. Earl Hathway of the Manistee post of the state police are directing the greatest manhunt in northwestern Michigan in the past decade. Their quarry is believed to be Morris Brozofsky, alias Theodore Allen, 36-year-old desperado of the Platte lake district.

Ugh! Ugh:

A three-year-old, very manlylike, walked over to the thermometer and stared at it for a second and said: "My gosh, grandpa, it's three inches below."

"MASTER of MONEY"
BY ROY VICKERS

CHAPTER XXXII.

"COACHMAN!" echoed Alan. "It's a good thing that fellow doesn't understand English. That is the patron. By a series of mortgages he probably owns the greater part of this outfit. The driver is his paid servant and he lives on the difference."

They drove out of the dock gates; Shirley, ignoring the dirtiness of the gharri, looked about her.

They were passing through a narrow sidestreet with a view of the main street ahead of them.

"You'll find bits of every place here — and of every time," answered Alan. "You'll find bits of the history of every country in the world walking about."

They turned into the main road, narrowly escaping collision with the latest model of a Rolls-Royce driven by a liveried chauffeur. On the other side of the Rolls-Royce was a team of four oxen drawing a cart laden with beer barrels, in charge of a driver in flowing robes and a dirty red headdress.

"Look at those two things!" exclaimed Alan. "There's some three or four thousand years between them—and neither of them is out of place here."

Presently they seemed to be passing out of the city proper into a suburban quarter. In a quiet square of comparatively modern stuccoed buildings, the gharri stopped.

"This is the Lutetia," said Alan. "I stayed here once before and, as far as I can remember, it should be good enough." As they walked through the revolving glass doors he added: "It's run by a quiet, decent Armenian—"

"Not now, boss," said a sleek man standing in the lounge.

Alan turned.

"Oh, you've bought the place, have you!" he exclaimed. "I gather you're American."

"No. I'm a Bulgarian," explained the man. "But I've had fifteen years' experience in New York. Andropoulides, who had the place before me, is dead. So are his wife and child. He had a bit too much to say to the police."

Alan nodded indifferently. Shirley wondered what the man meant by trouble with the police.

The hotel seemed confortable enough at first sight, though the proprietor was unable to provide them with a private sitting-room. They engaged three bedrooms in each of which was a reproduction of the statue of Liberty and two religious subjects.

"I'd better go and see about that luggage of ours," said Alan when they had inspected their rooms. "The lobby here is quite decent and if I were you I'd stay there. We'll go on a tour of inspection when I get back."

In the lobby Shirley endured the conversation of the proprietor for an hour, at the end of which, being called away, he presented her with a copy of La Vie Parisienne and of a three-months-old New York paper. For another two hours she endured the boredom of total inactivity and then, seeing the proprietor return, decided to go out.

She found another main road turning into the heart of the city, then, fascinated with the sights and sounds about her, walked on. Presently, a few yards ahead of her a door opened and out of it ran an elderly Jew, crying loudly, the tears streaming down his cheeks. At the same time, behind her, she heard Alan's voice.

"Look out! There's going to be trouble!"

She turned round and as she turned had a fleeting glimpse of three men surrounding the Jew. Then came the hoarse scream of a man in mortal agony.

Alan was urging her to a run. Running towards them was a policeman, who drew his revolver and fired. Instantly there came an answering report from behind them.

The next moment Alan picked her up in his arms and whisked her to a doorway. The door was locked, but the brickwork on either side was just wide enough to shield them from a chance bullet.

Alan's arms were about her, crushing her so that she could not breathe. At that moment all fear had left her.

"His back is exposed. He is risking his life for me," ran her thoughts.

"Why the devil did you leave that hotel when I told you not to?" he growled at her — it seemed hours later.

"I don't know. I was bored waiting for you. I'm very sorry, Alan. Is it all over?"

"Yes. Don't look behind you. We'd better go back and have some lunch."

* * *

By the end of the first month Shirley had interviewed a number of minor officials, obtaining from them illusory promises and accomplishing in fact nothing whatever towards obtaining a grant of military protection.

But in other respects the month had not been wasted. She had become familiar with the city and such of the customs of its inhabitants as concerned herself and her mission. Also she had acquired a house.

Alan had been against taking a house as soon as she had mentioned it, and had never explained his reasons. Finally the boredom resulting from a lack of privacy at the hotel had won him over.

They had taken the furnished house of a once prosperous native of apparently modern sympathies, for the house was well furnished throughout. It was pleasant enough even if judged by American standards. It had twelve rooms and a garden that sloped down to the tideless sea. A house that would have been commonplace enough in any Long Island bay, but for the fact that house, garden and waterfront were surrounded by spiked iron palings twelve feet high.

Shirley had been puzzled by the palings, thinking them a mistaken form of decoration until Alan explained.

"Wait till you see an excited mob of a thousand or so Mussulmen running amuck—you'll be glad enough of the palings then," he had told her. And she had looked from the massive oak sideboard to the rest of the furniture and tried to imagine the frenzied Mussulmen.

The task of housekeeping she had not attempted and a Spanish Jewess looked after the Greek cook and two housemaids, and on the whole made a very good job of it.

While she was making her futile journeys to the various municipal offices, Alan was actively employed in inspecting and overhauling the local depot of Macedonian Developments.

"Things seem to be in a rather better state down here than the report led me to believe," he told her one day. "I shall make a trip up country this week and inspect the mines and the track that's already laid. In the meantime, if you want help with your end of the stick, let me know."

"Am I being too slow, Alan?"

"No. I didn't mean you to take that remark as a criticism."

"I can't really tell yet whether I am likely to do any good or not," she said thoughtfully. "I am working my way through a lot of nonentities and sifting them out—and it takes time to discover that they are nonentities. Tomorrow I'm seeing the Commissioner. Judging by the difficulty of running him to earth, he's rather exclusive."

They were sitting over the fire after dinner. It was now the middle of November and a spell of cold weather had set in. Alan was looking through an account book while she was turning the pages of a catalogue. Suddenly she laughed and he looked up.

"Feeling a bit nervous?" he asked.

"I was thinking how funnily it has all turned out," she answered. "You made me think of something dangerous and thrilling when you talked of Macedonia. It's all frightfully picturesque, of course, and interesting in its way, but I go out every morning in a comfortable hired car, do a bit of shopping and talk to polite officials. And in the evening—well, look at us. It may be the influence of this dreadful furniture but I feel that we are becoming exactly like an ordinary American suburban couple."

There was a long silence and she thought that he had returned his attention to the account book. But presently he spoke:

"Except that we are not a 'couple,' Shirley."

"You are very literal," she objected lightly.

Inexplicably to her, the words had hurt her. Inexplicably, too, there had leaped into her mind that moment when his arms had been about her, shielding her from the chance of being hit by a stray bullet in the street.

"I suppose the truth is you get frightfully bored with the evenings here?" he suggested.

"And sigh for the old days?" she supplemented. "You're wrong, Alan. I'm not bored here with you. You couldn't bore me if you tried."

To her surprise he slammed the notebook and tucked it under his arm.

"I'm most gratified to hear that, Shirley," he rasped back. "But I feel in very special danger of boring you tonight. And as I don't want to spoil my reputation I'll go to bed. Good night."

Shirley was amazed. This, she sensed, was no ordinary outburst of bearishness. His voice had sounded definitely angry. For long she sat by herself, puzzling her brain to discover how she had offended him.

At breakfast on the following morning he seemed to have forgotten the incident, and she, too, had put it out of her mind by the time the hired car was waiting for her.

Shirley felt that she was going to have good luck with the Commissioner. Perhaps it was the really sumptuous offices that gave her that impression. She was shown into an ante-room that might have formed part of a royal suite, where, after some delay, a minor official requested her to sign a caller's book, giving particulars of herself.

She signed the book as "Mrs. Alan Bennaway," after which the minor official made small conversation with her for a full hour; then, glancing at the clock, he exclaimed abruptly:

"Monsieur Stavros awaits your pleasure, madame."

The Commissioner, a puffy Greek in early middle-age, got up as she entered and then sat down abruptly as if his getting up had been a mistake—as, indeed, it had been.

"This is the first time I have had the pleasure of addressing an American lady," he said in fluent French. "Is it possible that I can have the good fortune of being of some service?"

"The Commissioner is too kind," responded Shirley, and then listened patiently to a disclaimer on the part of the Commissioner and a panegyric of the riches of America.

Marilyn Miller, the famous Broadway musical comedy star, who scored outstanding success in three brilliant Ziegfeld shows, "Sally," "Sunny" and "Rosalie," makes her debut on the audible screen in First National's all-talking and singing version of "Sally," considered by many to be Miss Miller's greatest success. In bringing this famous Marilyn Miller—Flo Ziegfeld triumph to the audible screen, First National has photographed it entirely in natural colors and has endowed it with new songs, new dances, stunning sets and a great cast of stage and screen favorites. The result is entertainment that is sure to please yuong and old; a dazzling array of song, dance, romance and spectacle that is soothing to the eye and delightful to the ear.

John Francis Dillon directed "Sally" which will be presented at the Paramount theatre tonight, Tuesday and Wednesday.

FAST MEN TO TRY FOR RELAY MARK

BRAINERD HIGH HOPES TO SEND TEAM TO MINNESOTA RELAYS APRIL 6

Relay trials against time will be conducted by Coach Warren Kasch at the Washington high school this week to determine if a team of four can be secured to represent the school in the Minnesota Relays at the University of Minnesota field house on April 6.

The runners must meet a certain speed before being eligible to compete.

Among those who will try for places are:

Lammon, who was in the relay team for Brainerd high last year and who won second in the 440-yard race in the district meet.

Hogan, who displayed speed in football last year.

Moe, who won the half mile in the district meet.

Primo Carnera will make his tenth American appearance this evening at St. Louis, where he will clash with Chuck Wiggins, the old heavyweight trail horse from Indianapolis. Chuck has fought some good men in his day and despite the clowning which has always characterized his bouts, he has been a pretty fair boxer. He will be the best man who has faced Primo to date on his American tour.

They are having a St. Patrick's Day fight card in St. Paul tonight. Jock Malone meets Gorilla Jones, the Akron negro, in a ten-round wind-up bout. Jones has knocked out 13 of his last 25 opponents and scored knockdowns in 28 of the last 29. Not bad! It will be the old, old story of a boxer against a puncher for Jones makes no pretense of being a boxer.

* * *

The Eveleth Rangers defeated the Hibbing Maroons, 1-0, after three overtime periods yesterday afternoon at the Minneapolis auditorium to win the state amateur hockey title.

* * *

It took five runs in the ninth inning yesterday for the Minneapolis Millers to defeat the Little Rock Travelers of the Southern Association in an exhibition game at Hot Springs. The score was 15-14 and seven pitchers were nicked for 37 bingles during the wild afternoon. Moon, Eckert and Bannabee worked on the mound for the Millers.

Coach Kasch loses Guin, Hautala, B. Foster and Hoffbauer through graduation this year. Two of these men are regulars whom it will be hard to replace and their loss will be felt seriously, but the situation is not as bad as it seems at first. Kasch will have Schuety, E. Foster, Clausen and Garvey of this year's first string as a nucleus for next year's club. In addition to that he has Marshall and Patterson. Patterson looks as though he will develop into a first class center before next year's playing season is over. And then Kasch has Mayo, Gabiou, White and Templeton from this year's seconds. No, things don't look so dark!

* * *

Coach Woock of Crosby-Ironton will not be as hard hit by graduation as will Kasch. True, he will lose four of his warriors, just the same as Kasch, but his men will not be so hard to replace. Woock was blessed this year with substitutes that were just as strong as his regulars. Kasch was not that fortunate.

* * *

A few young people were enjoying a bit of tennis in Gregory Park yesterday. It shouldn't be so long now until those courts will be used regularly. And some of the boys will be practicing for participation in the tournaments for the city singles and doubles championships.

SEARCH FOR BURGLAR WHO KILLED SHERIFF

Honor, Mich., March 17—(U.P.)—Fresh crews today relieved the weary searchers who last night deployed the Platte lake swamps for the burglar who shot and killed Under Sheriff Edward M. Rarey of Beulah, at a deserted cottage Sunday.

Kenneth Fewlass, prosecutor of Benzi county and Lieut. Earl Hathway of the Manistee post of the state police are directing the greatest manhunt in northwestern Michigan in the past decade. Their quarry is believed to be Morris Brozofsky, alias Theodore Allen, 36-year-old desperado of the Platte lake district.

Ugh! Ugh!

A three-year-old, very manlylike, walked over to the thermometer and stared at it for a second and said: "My gosh, grandpa, it's three inches below."
